Deadly Chain Reaction Train Wreck . . . . . Kills 50, Seriously Injures 105

Heroic Rescuers Toil Through Night

LONDON (AP)—Two trains loaded with commuters and early Christmas shoppers crashed in thick fog at the rush-hour peak Wednesday night. At least 50 persons were reported killed.

A third train, about to cross an overpass bridge, was derailed and stopped just short of toppling into the wreckage in a deadly chain reaction.

The bridge smashed down on two carloads of passengers on one of the wrecked trains.

Heroic rescue workers toiled through the night, the screams of survivors pinned in the wreckage spurring their efforts.

A railway official said 105 persons were removed with serious injuries from tangled wreckage. There were some people on the three trains.

Firemen, doctors, nurses, police and hundreds of civilian workers ripped desperately at the wreckage with one fear uppermost in their minds: More steel from the bridge might fall on them.

The main part of the viaduct was supported at one end by girders on a steel pillar. It was carrying the weight of the derailed third train which escaped virtually unharmed.

Dead and injured were pulled from the wrecked cars and laid out in rows alongside the track.

Doctors crawled through gaping holes in compartments to give drugs to injured persons moaning piteously in a tangle of arms and legs.

Gaily colored parcels with Christmas wrappings littered the track, along with shoes, coats and handbags near the station south of the Thames River.

The thick fog that contributed to the wreck delayed rescue efforts and the movement of ambulances and doctors to the wreck area about four miles south of St. Paul's Cathedral.

It was the second day of the big fog. Tens of thousands of commuters were stranded.

Rescue workers ran out of stretchers. They improvised litters from doors wrenched from the wrecked compartments.

"Our compartment toppled on its side," Mrs. Vivian Ratfell said. "We were one struggling mass of arms and legs. Then a man said 'let's have cigarets all around.'

"When rescue workers arrived with arc lamps I saw that both his legs were badly torn and bleeding.

"Somewhere nearby a girl's voice was crying 'daddy, daddy'."

Can't Stomach Second Science Jolt

U.S. Hushes British Triumph

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Atomic Energy Authority today refused comment on a report by the Manchester Guardian scientist correspondent that Britain's latest triumph in thermonuclear research is being hushed up in response to America requests.

The report concerned "Zeeta," a research rig resembling a huge steel-plate doughnut at the authority's main research centre at Harwell.

Zeeta went into the operation in the middle of August to raise the temperature of hydrogen bomb gases sufficiently to set off a controlled release of nuclear energy. At stake is the possibility of taming the H-bomb blast for peaceful purposes.

Temperatures of close to 5,000,000 degrees centigrade have been produced in Zeeta, the Guardian says but the information is classified secret. The report said it is understood American representatives on the joint declassification committee have been able to suppress publication.

"It is being suggested that the United States Atomic Energy Commission is unwilling to stomach publicity for a resounding British achievement at a time when its own reputation in the United States is steadily declining," the report adds.

Government to Cut Down Payment On $10,000 NHA Home to $1,000

Income of $3,450 Now Qualification

HOWARD GREEN
. . . larger loans

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Howard Green Wednesday night introduced legislation in the Commons that would reduce down payments for homes built or purchased under federal housing legislation.

The down payment on a $10,000 home, now $1,400, would be lowered to $1,000, he said in introducing a resolution preliminary to a bill amending the National Housing Act.

The lower down payments would mean that loans would be larger.

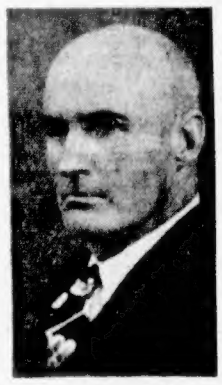
INCOME RULE ALTERED

Mr. Green also said that income requirements for loans will be lowered by regulation. For example, an income of $4,050 a year now is needed for a person to qualify for a loan of $9,000. This would be lowered to $3,450.

Mr. Green gave other examples of new down payments. On a home with a lending value of $11,000, the loan would rise from $9,300 to $9,900 and the required down payment would drop from $1,700 to $1,100.

On a $12,000 home, the loan would jump from $10,000 to $10,800 and the down payment drop from $2,000 to $1,200.

Mr. Green said a borrower now needs an income of $5,200 a year to qualify for a $12,200 loan on a $14,000 house. After the change in regulations, he would need an income of $4,360.



VICTOR L. LEIGH

U.S. 'Moon'

'Bugs' Foil Bid

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Mechanical "bugs" and cold, gusty winds spoiled the U.S. effort to shoot the satellite packing Vanguard rocket into space Wednesday night. It may be Friday before it can be fired.

John P. Hagen, director of the satellite project, said at Washington it was necessary to unload the liquid oxygen fuel and to unload and load would require several hours. This, he said, would tax the crews to the danger point because of weariness.

Homemade Rocket Kills Man

FLOYADA, Tex., (UP) — A homemade rocket exploded like a hand grenade as a physics class huddled around it outside Floyada High School yesterday. The teacher was killed an 13 students injured by shrapnel, two of them critically.

The teacher, Garland Foster, 47, had stooped down over the rocket and was lighting the end of it with a match when it exploded, hurling fragments in all directions. Foster caught the major brunt of the charge and apparently died instantly.

Keith Hollums and Jerry Crawford, both 18, suffered multiple injuries and were in critical condition.

RAF Bombers Get H-Bombs

LONDON (AP)—The air ministry disclosed last night that RAF bomber command is being equipped with hydrogen bombs.

The statement was made in the House of Commons by Charles Orr-Ewing, undersecretary of the air ministry.

Disclosure that nuclear bombs are carried on patrol flights by U.S. planes operating in Britain touched off a furor in the House of Commons last week.

Konni Zilliacus and other members of the Labor party complained the practice left the peace of the world "subject to errors of judgment or other human frailties by pilots."

'What We Asked For'

NHA News Hailed By City Builders

Victoria builders last night hailed news of proposed amendments to the National Housing Act which would make loans for housing available to people in lower income groups.

Victor L. Leigh, 3220 Beach, national chairman of the housing committee of the Canadian Construction Association, said the amendments announced by Works Minister Green were what his association had been seeking for the past two years.

"It is bringing back the original intention of the National Housing Act which has been lost," he said. "The act was originally drafted to help people who could not otherwise own a home under the mortgage regulations which existed in 1935."

Gilbert Brown, 3920 Cedar Hill, president of Victoria Builders' Exchange, said the move was what the building industry had been hoping for for the betterment of the industry. It had been actively sought by both the Canadian Construction Association and the National Housebuilders' Association.

First Babies Share Prize

VANCOUVER (CP)—For the first boy and girl born in B.C. next year, the province's 100th birthday, the centennial committee announces these prizes: A $2,000 educational grant each, a share of $3,000 in gift certificates, nursery supplies and cash.

Christmas Nothing Special

Lonely, Meagre Meal

How You Can Help

Helped by $100 from J. R. Murray, 501 Newport, and $75 from Sooke Towing Ltd., 2521 Cook, and scores of smaller donations, The Daily Colonist's "500 Christmas Fund" recorded another biggest single-day total yesterday to come within a few dollars of $3,000, or $6 for each of the 500 neediest families in this area.

Donations should be mailed to the fund at The Daily Colonist, 2631 Douglas, or taken to the Colonist offices there, or downtown at 1215 Broad. Contributions are deductible for income tax purposes; a list of yesterday's donors is on page 25.

Colonist 500 Fund Will Make It Better

By JUDY GRAHAM

On Christmas Day, a lonely man will leave his shabby skid road room, shuffle through empty downtown streets to have a meagre supper alone at some restaurant.

Dec. 25 is not a special day for a handicapped man who lives alone in a cheap, make-shift room.

NOT BY CHOICE

Where he lives is a matter of necessity and not choice. If he is to eat, a $6 room is all he can afford.

The Daily Colonist "500 Christmas Fund" will make this Christmas a bit different—he won't be worrying about where the rent money and money for the next meal will come from.

It may mean the difference between something new and the usual worn handout clothes he wears.

PALSY VICTIM

Although he is still young, the steady, well-paying jobs will never be open to him because cerebral palsy has handicapped him noticeably.

The social welfare people will never turn him down because they know how hard he tries to help himself.

They know he walks for hours every day knocking on dozens of doors asking to do small jobs.

They know that when most doors open and people meet a man in ragged clothes, a man whose hand jumps involuntarily from palsy, it is too easy to refuse him work.

NO GARDENING

And now that winter is here, it becomes increasingly difficult for him to find those odd jobs because the old standby gardening is "closed until spring."

Although they know he lives in a part of town where most men would drink away extra money, they have no worries because they also know something extra for him from the "500 Fund" will be jealously guarded and wisely spent.

They know a man who tries so hard truly deserves all the help he can get.

Election Unlikely

Canada's new Progressive Conservative government will not likely call an April election "unless the prime minister wishes to run in the face of an unfavorable economic situation," former Liberal health minister Paul Martin said in Winnipeg last night. He said the Conservatives were largely responsible for "these economic troubles."

Bennett Back 'Very Happy'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett arrived back in British Columbia from Ottawa Wednesday and said he is "very happy" with the federal-provincial fiscal talks. He didn't say where he had been since the talks ended last week.

Senator Says Gallery Museum of Horrors

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot, describing Canada's National Gallery as "a museum of horrors," protested Wednesday over government delay in answering questions he asked about it more than a month ago.

The Liberal senator from Quebec had asked for a list of recent acquisitions by the gallery and the price paid for each.

When Senator John T. Haig, government leader in the Senate, said he was not in a position to answer, Senator Pouliot rose to his feet and protested:

"Those questions have been standing for a long time. The delay can mean it is only because he (Senator Haig) is ashamed of the prices that are paid for those horrors—that are disgusting."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE two little boys go to kindergarten early and come back late. Both of them are jumping and squirming with energy when their father loads them on the school bus. Then he sighs with relief, finishes breakfast and goes to work.

Sometimes father returns from the office before the boys' bedtime, half expecting that their spirits will be dulled by fatigue; but he finds his sons raging on with undiminished noise and zest.

They run and jump at him, swing from his hands, try to climb up him and scream for stories.

Sometimes He's at a Loss

Sometimes he is curious to know what they have been doing all day. The boys' father and mother between them were at one time able to maintain a fairly complete log of the boys' words and deeds, but now the children have become small separate beings, with a life of their own.

They are perverse little boys. In a burst of voluntary confidence, they will prattle an account of the day's events, in some detail. But when they are actually asked a question, they tend to go coy, fling themselves gleefully around the room, uttering gibberish, and tell nothing.

On this particular day, their father must have hit them in a talkative mood.

"What did you do at school today?" he asked.

I'm a Host of Cherubim

"I'm a shepherd," announced John.

"Ah," said his father, "the Christmas play."

Michael turned up a fat, grimy face.

"I'm a host of cherubim," he piped.

"Wendy is fousands of sara-fimm," said John.

"Thousands of seraphim?"

"Yes."

Then John brought the interview to a sudden end by charging at his father with head lowered. Michael charged from the other side, and administered a painful blow to his father's knee with his little skull.

There was nothing pastoral or angelic about either of them. Father reflected that if he had been made producer of a religious playlet, he would have cast his sons for somewhat different roles. He closed his eyes and imagined horns sprouting through their tousled hair.

Vancouver Bank Robbery

Bandit Saunters In, Handed $2,300 Cash

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lone bandit walked into a downtown branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce just before closing time Wednesday and was handed $2,300 in cash by the teller.

He walked out of the building before bank officials realized the robbery had taken place. He indicated he had a gun in his pocket, but never showed a weapon.

The man demanded "big bills" from teller Mrs. Tina Pienert. She handed him a packet of $10 and $20 bills and as he walked from the bank, she crossed to the next wicket and sounded the alarm. Her own wicket, a temporary structure, had no alarm signal.

First police reports said Mrs. Pienert had fainted after turning over the money, but she later denied this.

The same branch was held up and robbed of $2,500—again minutes before closing time—June 7, 1955. The lone bandit was captured soon afterwards when he went on a spending spree. He was sentenced to six years in prison.

Founder's Daughter . . . . . Sees Big Task Ahead

CCF Plans More Pioneering

MRS. GRACE MacINNIS . . . Party will hit hard

The CCF party of Canada, while taking credit for forcing much of the nation's social legislation in its 25 years of existence, plans now to "pioneer fresh territory," Mrs. Grace MacInnis said here last night.

Mrs. MacInnis, a former provincial MLA and daughter of the CCF founder, J. S. Woodsworth, said the party would hit hard at new approaches to economic planning, conservation and education of Canada's youth."

Mrs. MacInnis was here to address a general rally of the CCF party at Mount Tolmie CCF Hall on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the party.

The CCF, which added three seats to its Commons membership in the last election (to 25) will continue as a major political force because "while we are not losing sight of social legislation, there is fresh pioneering work to be done," Mrs. MacInnis said.

Calling for much better conservation and development policies," she cited "chaotic waste and mismanagement" as a major problem, giving as an example "over-producing of forest products and then long layoffs."

She advocated that Canada enter "something like an international wheat agreement" that would provide against dumping policies of any country and ensure regular markets.

Public authority should take control of key resources in Canada, she said.

"We need to protect the big resources of the country from U.S. interests . . . but we don't want our throat cut any more by a Canadian buccaneer than a Texas one."

Greatly increased federal aid to education would be another CCF aim, she said.

For the immediate future, Mrs. MacInnis called on the federal government to act at once on the unemployment problem . . . "now is the time to avoid the snowball of depression."

Straps to Be Issued To Winnipeg Teachers

WINNIPEG (BUP) — School trustees have passed a motion to approve strapping for students who create discipline problems.

The motion, passed by a 11-3 vote, will allow each teacher to be supplied with a strap and the right to use it as a last resort in maintaining discipline. Permission from the principal is not required. Under present regulations, teachers took the offender to the principal before strapping was administered.

Giant Drilling Rig Towed 7,650 Miles

HAMBURG, Germany (UP)—A giant, 4,800-ton seagoing oil-drilling platform has reached its destination in the Persian Gulf after a 7,650-mile voyage. The platform was built by a German dockyard. It left Rendsburg Aug. 24 and passed through the Suez Canal in October, towed by a tug.

FRIGIDAIRE DEALERS SHOWN 1958 MODELS

Subtle refinement of Frigidaire's classic sheer look, plus a wide variety of conveniences and two new colors, were highlights of the company's 1958 electric ranges, refrigerators and food freezers, in a two-day private dealer show just completed at the Empress Hotel. A year ago, Frigidaire initiated the trend toward the built-in look in free-standing appliances with its rectangular styling. Since then, this new concept has been enthusiastically accepted by the nation's homemakers, builders, kitchen planners, architects and appliance industry designers. New free-standing refrigerators, ranges, automatic washers and dryers are available in new turquoise and sunny yellow as well as fashionable charcoal grey, pink and white. Built-in appliances also come in these new colors.

'Callousness' of Tories Scored by City Labor

The federal government was accused last night of a "callous attitude to the unemployment situation" by chairman of Victoria Labor Council's unemployment committee.

Donald S. Douglas said unemployment is "serious" now and is not expected to reach a peak until January. Victoria has 4,053 jobless and Vancouver 26,000.

MINISTERS QUOTED

Pulling out newspaper clippings, Mr. Douglas quoted federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming as saying unemployment was not a "national emergency" and deputy minister of Labor Arthur Maloney as stating that "Canada's winter-time workers never had it so good" and that there are 123,000 more workers in Canada this year than last.

"I maintain that they are throwing up a smoke screen when they say there are more people working today," Mr. Douglas said. This is because of the many immigrants to Canada.

"I think is its deplorable that these people . . . should take such a callous attitude to the unemployment situation," he said.

He introduced a resolution, which council passed, asking the provincial government to call a conference of representatives of municipal governments, chambers of commerce, industry, labor and churches, to deal with unemployment.

CAN FUND COPE?

Noting that the unemployment insurance fund totalled $822,595,000 in May, 1956, he asked:

"If we have mass unemployment in the next five months, will this fund deal with it?"

Unemployment and suggestions for alleviation of the problem will be one of the main points in the annual brief the B.C. Federation of Labor will present to the provincial government Friday morning.

Bounty's Anchor Raised

For 167 years this anchor, once used on HMS Bounty, rested in the sand off Pitcairn Island, where mutineers set fire to the ship of Capt. Bligh. It and other remains of the ship were discovered by skin divers and, brought to the surface, is here examined by Fletcher Christian, descendant of the leader of the mutineers, who, after burning the ship, settled on the island with the Polynesian natives.—(CPC)

Liberal Senator Tells Doctors

'No Good Crying Halt To State Medicine'

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator David Croll Wednesday urged Canada's doctors to 'join the movement toward national health insurance. They might as well, he said, since they could count the fight against it as lost.

Speaking in the Senate throne speech debate, the Ontario Liberal criticized a maiden-speech appeal by newly-named Senator Joseph A. Sullivan (PC—Ontario), who last Thursday said Canada's medical profession "cries halt" to the advance toward "state medicine."

EQUASION QUERIED

Senator Croll said the Toronto senator, who is a practising physician and surgeon, equates social welfare with communism. The doctor-senator had alleged that national health insurance meant malingering and wastage of public funds.

"Can anyone say," asked Senator Croll, "that the government, which is to say the Canadian people, is being fleeced through abuses in the unemployment insurance scheme?"

ANY MALINGERING?

"Is there any appreciable malingering to milk the fund unduly or benefits? The question answered. Then why should a health insurance scheme — not 'state medicine,' whatever that is — permit any greater abuses?"

The expenditures involved would filter through the economy at every level, and a good part of them return to the public treasury in various forms of taxes.

'Dag' Resolves Convoy Issue

JERUSALEM (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold settled the Israeli-Jordan dispute over convoys to Mount Scopus Wednesday, and Israel will resume the dispatch of supplies to the isolated ridge today.

An Israeli government spokesman said the next convoy includes nine drums of gasoline, the ingredient which had threatened to blow up the peace and brought the UN secretary-general on his trouble-shooting mission to the Middle East.

In Amman, the Jordan capital, a government spokesman said the next convoy will pass into Jordan territory today.

"The convoy will carry supplies approved by the Jordan authorities only," he said. He would not say whether such supplies would include gasoline.

A joint UN-Israeli communique said, "Arrangements have been made for a resumption of convoys to Mount Scopus."

Natives Bury Beloved Nun

KAMPALA, Uganda (UP) —Franciscan nun "Mama Kevin," who died recently in Boston, Mass., has been buried near Kampala in the grounds of the convent she founded.

Baganda tribesmen, who loved the gentle nun, raised a fund to bring her body here from Boston. Sister Kevin had worked for 50 years among Uganda Africans.

CCF Riles Fleming

Angry MPs Stage Commons Uproar

OTTAWA (CP) — Angry words flew Wednesday as the Commons debated for 4½ hours before voting the government $281,600,000 as an interim money supply to pay its December bills.

Some of the heat was generated by Finance Minister Donald Fleming's attempts to prod the opposition into more speed.

The rest came from CCF party charges that the government is doing nothing about unemployment.

UTTER BANKRUPTCY

Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North) said the government has shown "complete and utter bankruptcy" in the situation.

The usually soft-spoken H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) said some cabinet members "have such an antiquated viewpoint they would have made good village councillors in the reign of George III."

Tempers reached their highest point near the debate's close, when Mr. Fleming rose to complain about the length of the debate.

He said it had been "an extraordinary exhibition" for members to speak at such length and on so many topics.

RIGHTS ABUSED

Mr. Fleming's strongest criticism was directed at the CCF party, whose members had spoken most. Their speeches had been "a complete violation" of Commons practice. They had been "abusing the rights of the House and trespassing on the rights of other members."

If the opposition wanted to take that course, government plans for future House business "will have to take account of that fact and be guided accordingly."

Mr. Stewart reacted angrily.

"No minister can threaten us in any way," the CCF member said. Mr. Fleming's references to CCF members were "nothing but calculated insolence."

He said that when Prime Minister Diefenbaker was in opposition he used to "tear his hair about the way Parliament was being insulted."

"Now he is prime minister, he wants to . . . clamp down upon discussion and we are not prepared to take it."

Quake Centred In Mongolia

A Victoria seismologist yesterday calculated that a severe earthquake, recorded here and around the world Tuesday, was centred in Mongolia, southwest of Russia's Lake Baikal.

Seismographs around the entire earth picked up the tremor, but could not agree on its centre.

Inquiry Would Clear Fog

THE events of the last few days have proved once more that bickering among municipal neighbors, with a municipal four of everything in the same small area, is not likely to bring any enduring settlement of their difficulties. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has given a new lead by suggesting that the provincial government be requested to set up a Royal Commission to study amalgamation as it would apply expressly in the urban region of Greater Victoria. Victoria City has responded by arranging to put a referendum on such an inquiry before its ratepayers immediately. Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich have now rejected companion referendums, the last with the strange twist of endorsing the idea of a Royal Commission without reference to its voters.

In essence, this leaves these municipal administrations in about the same position relatively as they have been for last decade—at sixes and sevens over an issue which is certainly among the most important of all for the future well-being of the fast-growing community. The Jaycees motion is one to inquire by independent means into the purposes, machinery and results of civic union as it might be applied here if common consent were obtained. Supporting this, Victoria City is taking steps to add to that the directly-sought opinion of its own citizens. Obviously there can be no form of civic union without the consent of the citizens concerned; and they will have nothing to consent to until the whole issue has been studied in its express application.

To our mind, a Royal Commission to inquire into amalgamation and its possible application here would be a timely step. There could be no compulsion in the matter, but an independent inquiry under provincial auspices would have weight given to its findings. Municipal regions are not alike anywhere. Greater Victoria shares, in addition, the responsibility of being the capital area. Populations and other pressures are straining divided municipal services as they exist at present. Both economically and civically some form of improvement will have to be found. If amalgamation has something tangible to offer, as many believe that it has, then a study of it is a logical start.

Reason for Caution

IT is the view of External Affairs Minister Smith that because of Russian scientific successes the West should take a new look at the Soviet Union. Specifically he blames the United States for too great a readiness to say "no" when Moscow suggests a summit conference to discuss international differences. The Sputniks have created a new situation, he says. Certainly they have, although whether that means the U.S. should now automatically say "yes" to any Russian proposal is another matter.

Not many people outside the U.S. have any great confidence in American foreign policy. Mr. John Foster Dulles enjoys the distinction of being the least successful American foreign secretary of modern times, and there is substance for the thought that no real headway in easing international tensions will be made while he holds office. He at times has been arrogant and truculent, as well as befuddling and misleading. The same might well be said of Mr. Nikita Khrushchev, nevertheless; he does not offer much comfort either.

It is easy enough to propose a summit meeting, a conjunction at the highest diplomatic level. Since Canada would not be a party to any such gathering she can back the idea without having any responsibility for its success. That is no guarantee that high-level peace talks would be of any value. It is reasonable to suppose that both Great Britain and the United States would accept Russian overtures of this nature if they felt assured some success would come of it. Unfortunately the record does not support such an assumption.

Summit meetings in fact often turn out in reverse, because of the build-up in advance and the let-down that invariably follows when nothing substantial has been accomplished. It is quite plain also that Soviet offers are frequently not genuine but made only to place the West in an awkward position, and the Russians are much more adept at making propaganda capital out of every conference. It is this knowledge that breeds caution on the part of Western leaders and rightly so. It is all very well to say that the U.S. rebuffs Russian advances but there is the danger of walking into a trap, and if there is no assurance that a summit meeting is worthwhile then certainly it is unlikely to prove to be so.

Mr. Smith's view that the Sputniks have changed the situation has some validity, but if a high-level conference were to be held simply because of this factor then the West would enter it under a distinct disadvantage. Moscow would consider the approach to be appeasement and there would be no gain for the West in that; the odds would be even heavier in Moscow's favor.

Tragedy Stalks the Streets

AS the news reports have told in tragic detail, Safe Driving Week broadened to include safe walking had barely begun in Victoria before having to be recorded as the most dismal failure of its kind in this region's history. Within hours of the opening of a campaign designed to set an example for the holiday season two elderly men and a youth lay dead. Two of them were pedestrians and the other, the youngest of the three, a cyclist. And the peak of year-end traffic density will not be reached for another three weeks.

The circumstances of these fatal accidents will, of course, be fully investigated, and until they have been it would be improper to attempt to place blame anywhere, even if it were possible to do so. But the fact stands out starkly that all three of the unfortunates killed almost instantaneously might be alive today if they had not ventured out of doors.

From now until the holidays are over the dangers in traffic, both on the highways and on city streets will continue to increase. It is earnestly to be hoped that these terrible occurrences so early in what should be a season of peace and happiness will have a cautionary influence on the actions of all who move around, whether in cars, on bicycles or afoot. The failure of Safe Driving Week is a blow to those who strove to keep the record clear—but it is lives, not statistics, that are important.

Amalgamation Studied

Co-operation Leaves Gaps

THE metropolitan co-ordination which now exists throughout Greater Victoria provides a working equivalent of a goodly proportion of the metropolitan government network that many areas are still seeking to achieve. In combination, all these joint service arrangements have greatly reduced its problems of divided jurisdiction. Nevertheless, within the services so covered, there remain a number of weaknesses in comparison with the outright transfer of responsibilities to some form of metropolitan municipality. First, the inter-municipal boards constitute a method of government which removes the services in question from direct policy control by the local elected representatives in the area. Second, there is no guarantee of permanence with co-operative arrangements and an insufficient guarantee even in the case of the inter-municipal bodies. Third, some of these arrangements leave both gaps in coverage and some remaining measure of divided jurisdiction. Fourthly, both co-operative agreements and inter-municipal bodies make for confusion and lack of co-ordination in policy formulation and administration.

A further point is that co-operative arrangements and inter-municipal boards do not meet all the problems of divided jurisdiction. . .

The construction and maintenance of roads, except for those arteries which are exclusively a provincial responsibility, is undertaken almost entirely through the separate action of the individual municipalities. Work on municipal boundary roads has involved a limited amount of inter-municipal co-operation but, according to the Institute's information, uniformity in policy and scheduling on these roads has on occasion been far from adequate.

As long as the present municipal boundaries are continued, the City of Victoria will bear the full local responsibility for maintenance and eventual replacement of the Point Ellice and Johnson Street bridges. Since, strictly speaking, these bridges link two sections of the city itself, an inter-municipal arrangement is scarcely a likely development. Yet the bridges are of direct benefit to citizens throughout the metropolitan area and beyond, while, to the residents of Esquimalt at least, they are a virtual necessity.

A similar type of situation is currently developing in the District of Saanich. There is a growing need for an east-west traffic artery across the lower portion of the District. Such an artery would undoubtedly be useful to the residents of Oak Bay and of some considerable value to the whole metropolitan area. With the present municipal structure, the District of Saanich alone must bear the responsibility.

Over the next twenty years, the City of Victoria anticipates the necessity of extensive improvements to its storm sewer system. It is possible that an east-west storm sewer across the northern portion of the City, providing drainage for parts of Saanich and Oak Bay as well, would prove a more economical investment or at least warrant a higher priority than re-development of some of the City's present system. Barring another inter-municipal agreement however, the launching of such an undertaking is inhibited by divided jurisdiction.

One further example must suffice. A large part of the residential area in Saanich is dependent on septic tanks for sewage disposal. It is reported that, in some areas of the District, septic tank disposal is already far from satisfactory. A solution to the problem is today an exclusive responsibility of the District itself. Yet, from the standpoint of public health, the existing situation may well grow into a problem of metropolitan-wide importance.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I HOPE it's not true, but Maclean's magazine say's it's in the bag—or rather on the feet. Whose feet?

Milady's, of course.

Now these dainty pedals are delicate things—for a man to discuss, I mean. Physically they're the toughest extremities known to human science.

What is it a Montreal fashion commentator says, and she a woman?

"Women don't count comfort and convenience when you tell them their feet look glamorous."

I suppose that must be so. No man, not in his senses anyway, ever tried to leave the heels off his shoes or cool his toes by poking them through a hole in front, so he can only guess at what such hardihood means.

* * *

Actually he marvels, especially when he sees milady tottering apparently to her doom on six-inch spikes that, to his flat-footed eyes, seem ridiculous.

She doesn't fall; that's the marvel of it all. Off the record I'll go so far as to say she doesn't look as glamorous as she thinks, either, but then she doesn't dress to please the male sex.

Or does she?

If I'm to believe Maclean's she's about to encase her feet once more—if encase is the word—according to the whim of man. This is the paradox of women's fashions. Some man creates a feminine style—what kind of man I wouldn't care to guess—and that's it.

If it's a shoe, come broken ankles or corns or bunions, it will be worn. And what a gamut the female foot has run. How it still retains a comely shape—I'll admit that—must be the world's greatest mystery.

Greater even than a sputnik; albeit I expect some shoe, or some hat, shortly to be so-named.

At the moment, however, the storm signals are out for next spring's peculiar pedal pusher, Italian patent. It's the biggest thing, says Maclean's, since the last Dior new look.

A real wobbler, with stiletto heel and needle toe.

* * *

The tight toe pinches, the ankle shakes, the heel catches in grates, splinters and breaks off—to be replaced every couple of weeks at $3 a pair—but the ladies will fall for it in droves.

Get ready, men, and order dark spectacles.

Some men are getting ready in advance, says Maclean's. Escalators have been clogged by this new threat to perpendicular balance; the skinny stiletto falls into the works. And engineers in Miami have started making manhole covers with smaller holes—half-an-inch smaller.

It must be true, then.

One bold chiropodist has uttered a moan: "It's ruining women's feet," he says. As though that were a criterion; anyway he'll make a fortune out of the needle-toe stiletto. The sales of corn plasters are soaring too.

After the sack suit I suppose nothing should faze a mere man; but oh ladies, if you could only see yourself mince along Douglas Street you'd send this shoe straight back to Italy.

No, you wouldn't; that's the sad part. For comfort and glamour are never synonymous. Glamour, did I say?

Reports from Ottawa

DEFENCE production has become the forgotten department of government. It has been so de-emphasized, and with doubtful wisdom, that if the billion-dollar-a-year defence purchasing program suffers it will be the fault of no one but the government.

It is going on to six months since the Conservatives took office, yet this department is still headed by an acting minister who has two other jobs which come ahead of his responsibility for defence purchasing.

Howard Green, the acting minister, is also minister of public works and deputy leader—vice Prime Minister Diefenbaker—in the House of Commons. As the PM's first lieutenant in parliament, Green is responsible for the progress of government legislation and for Tory strategy in the Commons. Moreover, when the PM is away Green acts as prime minister and presides at cabinet meetings.

* * *

Granted that when C. D. Howe was production minister he was also trade minister. But Green has nothing like Howe's experience in business and with industrialists, which enabled Howe to handle both jobs effectively. Indeed, the story is told that when Green was confronted with a proposed contract, in the early weeks of his production stewardship, he was at complete loss as to whether he should sign it or not.

"Would C.D. have signed this?" he asked a departmental chief, one of Howe's former proteges.

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

Green thereupon signed.

* * *

When Diefenbaker appointed Sidney Smith as foreign minister in September, he remarked that this pretty well finished his cabinet-making. I asked, "What about defence production?" This seemed to catch him by surprise, and after thinking a few moments he replied:

"There will be no minister appointed to that department unless the department becomes more important than it is now."

It is hard for this observer to believe the department has diminished in importance. It still does all the buying for the department of national defence, the job for which it was established. And defence buying gives little indication of shrinking very much.

* * *

The situation is the more difficult to understand in the light of Diefenbaker's appointment of a solicitor-general, a readily dispensable cabinet post, and two ministers in the Commons without portfolios. And in the light of his failure to appoint even a parliamentary assistant in connection with the department of defence production. Thirteen parliamentary assistants serve other departments.

There were rumors earlier that the government intended to divest this department of some of its main responsibilities. For example, the navy would take over procurement of its own ships, and the RCAF of its planes.

Such intention, if it existed, has not materialized into action. Indeed, there would seem to be little to gain and much to lose by it. Furthermore, even the Crown companies which come under the wing of the production minister have not been disturbed.

* * *

The dangers inherent in the government's failure to replace Howe with a competent, full-time minister to oversee the spending of a billion of the taxpayers' dollars a year are obvious. A man with business acumen and industrial experience is needed — something the department now lacks at the top, where the acting minister and his deputy are lawyers, and officials at the second level are accountants.

Fascination of Hardware

By GREGORY CLARK

IF you were not what you are now, what would you rather be?

To start the game off, I will admit that if I had not been a newspaperman I would sooner have been a hardware dealer than anything in the whole world. I mean an old-fashioned hardware store owner such as you may still find, if you are lucky, in small towns, and in some of the less-fashionable districts of cities.

It would take me nearly an hour, every morning, from about 7.30 a.m. (breakfast at 6.30), until 8.30 a.m., to carry out all the stuff I wanted to display, in the open, on the front of the store: galvanized tubs, step ladders, hand sleighs, oil lanterns, clothes props, bright, new, glossy, colored things, that I would hang and heap and pile up all over the front of the store, so that you could hardly see in the window at all.

* * *

But if you could see past the outside merchandise to get glimpses of what was in the window, it would be braces and bits, hammers, whole sets of drills in leather or canvas cases, beautiful pans, pots, lengths of bull chain, .22 rifles, fishing tackle.

The store, inside, would be tall, dim and tangled. And nobody in the world would know where anything was but me. There would be shelves and drawers to the ceiling, the topmost of which you reached by a ladder that ran on an iron track along the floor behind the counter. Out of the counters would come manilla rope of all sizes, through holes. Behind the counters, bins, bins, dark and topply, full of axe heads, sledges, picks, mauls. Kegs by the dozen, piled on one another, full of nails. Forty thousand nails.

And out through the back door, a shed. A shed about 40 feet long, so full of wheelbarrows, hods, lawnmowers, busted boxes . . .

The only reason I became a newspaperman was that I didn't have any capital to start a hardware store. Now if I hadn't had the $20 capital to start being a reporter, I think I would have liked, next, to have been a shoe shine man. Nothing in the world is more satisfying than shining shoes, and seeing an old scuffed thing come bright and beautiful under your very hands.

How about you?

On the Record

History Repeating?

IN the spring of 1940 this columnist arrived in Paris from Switzerland following a tour of countries peripheral to Germany, during which I had been overwhelmed by the German power.

It was during the months of the so-called "phony" war, consisting of skirmishes rather than battles. In Switzerland I had received a piece of intelligence from a German I had reason to believe trustworthy that the Nazi armies would strike in full force through Holland and Belgium within a month.

Trustworthy or not, there was a preternatural tension in the midst of unnatural calm which added foreboding to the warning.

* * *

In Paris I was invited to see some French war films. One depicted the French reply to "Hitlaire." "Nous respondons"—we reply, to Hitler—"avec le pain"—with bread, butter, fruits. One saw crusty white French loaves leaving the baker's oven, curls of sweet butter, and other culinary delights that are justly the pride of France.

On the trip I had heard the German forces estimated at between 230 and 250 divisions. My German informant in Zurich, anti-Nazi and a francophile, trusted nevertheless by the regime, had whispered behind a locked door, "If you are going to Paris warn the government. I am afraid the German armies will go through France like a knife through butter. It will be a catastrophe."

Now the cliche phrase rang in my head. "We reply with butter." A knife would go through butter. A knife poised to strike.

* * *

I recall this as pertinent to the present moment.

Since 1947 we have been engaged in a cold war with the Soviets in which we have been verbally more aggressive than they. President Truman advised us that we must win this war to prevent a hot one otherwise inevitable. For years our press speculated about World War III, describing how we would win it.

We have boasted of our technical and military superiority and of our capacity to hit from hundreds of bases every target in the Soviet Union. The Russians meanwhile have talked of "peaceful co-existence."

Simultaneously our "selling" campaign has been the "American standard of living." We reply to Stalin—or Khrushchev or whomever—with a motorcar in every garage, daily meat for every family, a closet full of clothes for every woman and more of the "good things of life" for more people than enjoyed by any nation in history. These cars and calories, clothes, cosmetics, recreations and industrial power units have been presented as the chief or only "good."

* * *

American journalists who have visited Russia have, invariably, commented on the high cost and poor quality of consumer goods, the drabness of Russian dress, the general lack of amenities. They have reported (and I among them) on the exorbitant physical demands made upon Russian woman. But little attention has been paid to the equally extraordinary fact that Russian women are physically able to endure such burdens, and that there, is, in Russia, an enormous physical strength repeatedly illustrated in the international Olympic Games.

Until two years ago—when this columnist was one of the first journalists to report on it—little attention was paid to Russian education, to its enormous individual, intellectual and social disciplines, its fostering of the sacrificial spirit, and to the fact that, whatever its other failures, it was turning out far more graduates in the higher intellectual disciplines—especially mathematics and sciences—than we were.

Nor have our minds been directed to the repeatedly demonstrated historical experience that love of comfort, ease and leisure have laid peoples wide open to subjection by tougher, poorer races.

* * *

Now, in reply to all the verbiage we have poured out extolling our wealth and happiness, the Russians have answered with an almost inaudible beep.

Almost inaudible, but it is heard from Calcutta to Tokyo, from Jakarta to Cairo, from Washington to London, Paris and Bonn.

"Beep—beep," but the noise is thunderous.

Letters to the Editor

Without Test

Having been personally interested in various forms of hunting in other parts of the world, I was amazed not only by the large number of accidents, mostly fatal, which occur here annually during the hunting season but by the abnormal apathy of the authorities concerned.

In order, if possible, to discover some plausible reason for these tragedies I had short interviews with a few persons who have hunted here for some years past and I was rather dumbfounded by the information given to me.

It would appear that in order to obtain a licence to hunt one has only to apply in person and pay the fee, which varies in accordance with the type of game hunted. No examination either of a physical or mental nature was required before being granted permission to carry and freely use a dangerous weapon capable of killing at distances up to 1,000 yards.

The applicant could, to all intents and purposes, be color blind or have other types of defective vision, be half-witted and understand few, if any, of the elementary principles covering the handling and safe operation of a modern high-power hunting rifle. Such person thus might well constitute a potential danger not only to himself but to all persons within a radius of a half mile of his weapon.

As a means of remedying this distressing situation and reducing these tragedies I would suggest that an eyesight and some simple form of verbal competency test be given an applicant before any licence to hunt is issued.

Transport Setback

I was informed the other day in the Coach Lines that after Jan. 1, 1958, the bus service between Victoria and Sooke was to be cut down to Monday and Thursday weekly. This will be a very serious blow to the district, especially to elderly retired people who have no other means of transport. If a husband or wife is in hospital in a serious condition, for example, what can they do?

A public utility has to be supported by the public they accommodate. Several people only use it one way, for their return journey to Sooke. Something should be done by the community to avert this isolation. It is certainly a great setback to a growing district.

Fuller Living

May I say "thank you" to Tony Emery for his last two articles, i.e., one on "Soft Upbringing" not being conducive to facing up to the complex way of life now confronting humanity. Some deprivation is essential to a true evaluation of what is really important in life—good health, sincere and loyal friends—knowledge and the wisdom to use it to benefit others; a contented mind to enjoy the simple things of life, accepting adversity as a challenge.

Secondly, the "art" of criticism. Constructive criticism is absolutely necessary to advancement in all endeavors, specially with young people. Appreciation of good design, of quality rather than quantity, fine craftsmanship and fitness for purpose, than easy acceptance of the cheap and tawdry. In all the arts of mankind, including living.

Need Better Lighting

Was pleased to see the letter in this morning's paper (Dec. 3) concerning the "confusing lights" decorating city streets for Christmas. What concerns me more is why are they only lighting a few of the regular standards now in place?

At my place of business, there was one street light turned on between Bay and Queens Street at 9.30 p.m. Sunday. There were eight light standards out (each having 5 globes out). Are the city fathers concerned with safety first? Surely the taxes are high enough to expect better lighting, and this should be brought to their attention.

I maintain that most of these accidents causing death to our pedestrians could be avoided if intersections were better lit in this city. Also there would be a decline in the business premises looted and broken into. Police and public should demand more lights turned on . . . they were not intended as ornaments.

Losing Time

It was gratifying indeed to read the headline in the Dec. 3 Colonist, "Anti-Fluoridation Ranks Misleading the Public," along with the accompanying article underlining the benefits of fluoridation. If we recognize this, maybe we can do something about it.

The citizens and children of Victoria are losing precious time and money by allowing the vocal minority of anti-fluoridationists here to delay this great public health measure. After over 20 years of scientific investigation, the overwhelming evidence supporting the benefits of fluoridation and the added endorsement of medical, dental and public health authorities all over North America and Europe, there is no argument.

The research centres of today, which supply the bulk of scientifically valid information, are our great universities. This is how they stand on fluoridation of public water supplies: "Of 75 accredited North American universities, 69 are solidly in favor of fluoridation, three gave no opinion, and three reserved opinion because they had no medical or dental faculties to investigate."

I quote from a 100-page book, "Our Children's Teeth," published March 6, 1957, a digest of fluoridation studies and conclusions by a group of leading research doctors and dentists. The chairman of this research group, giving the indisputable proof of the benefits of fluoridation, is the internationally respected authority (known especially to mothers everywhere), Dr. Benjamin Spock.

Church Favors Socialized Drink

OTTAWA — The United Church of Canada favors nationalization of the Canadian liquor industry, the Canadian Temperance Federation was told.

Rev. Homer Lane of Toronto, associate secretary of the church's board of social service and evangelism, said the United Church is hostile to the liquor trade and solidly favors its complete nationalization.

Dr. Gordon Porter, president of the federation, said all liquor advertising in Canada should be eliminated.

PORTLAND—A. F. Hartung, president of the International Woodworkers of America, said Wednesday Pacific Northwest employers have decided to "put the heat on to destroy collective bargaining agreements made over the past two decades."

BRISBANE — Lt.-Gen. Sir John Dudley Lavarack, 71, who claimed he was the first British general to beat German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, died yesterday. He was governor of Queensland for more than 10 years.

Lavarack commanded the Australian 7th Division in the early days of the western desert war. He said he defeated Rommel outside Tobruk in 1941.

Canadian Atom Plant

Change of Design Scraps $1,000,000

GLASGOW (CP) — The huge steel furnace designed and moulded for Canada's first commercial atomic reactor has been tossed on a scrap heap in the yards of a Glasgow boiler factory.

The five-inch thick plates, planned for a reactor 70 feet high and about 17 feet wide, are reported to have cost more than $1,000,000. The Glasgow company, Babcock and Wilcox, is wondering what to do with them, now that Canada has changed its specifications for the reactor.

Meanwhile, work on the Canadian reactor near the Chalk River atomic research centre is virtually at a standstill.

The power plant originally was to have been constructed by 1959. Now there is a question whether it can be completed by 1960 or 1961.

Babcock and Wilcox officials said that as they proceded with the job, the Canadian designers suddenly decided to change specifications and build a new reactor about twice as powerful as the one originally intended.

The Canadians have worked out the designs and are in the midst of estimating costs.

There is a strong possibility the order will be placed with Babcock and Wilcox.

Civic Heads Must Pick Co-ordinator

Mayor Percy Scurrah said yesterday that he and the reeves of the adjoining municipalities, as a committee of the Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board, will meet quickly to screen applications for the post of civil defence co-ordinator.

"We will want to get at it right away," he said.

"Close to 20" persons are reported to have applied for the position. The successful applicant will succeed Roger Peachey, who recently announced his impending resignation.

Parachutes Too Late, Two Fliers Killed

EDMONTON (CP)—Two student flying officers were killed Wednesday when their parachutes failed to open after they bailed out of a CF-100 twin-jet interceptor aircraft at low altitude.

Dead are FO John Vear, 21, of Orillia, Ont., the navigator, and FO Frank Eakin, 21, Cloverdale, B.C., pilot. Both were stationed at Cold Lake, Alta., RCAF base, about 120 miles northeast of here.

More Unions May Go In Corruption Probe

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —The AFL-CIO Wednesday marked two more unions—the United Textile Workers and Distillery Workers—for possible expulsion on corruption charges.

—These two unions were added to the Teamsters, Bakers and Laundry Workers Union as targets for expulsion action by the nearly 2,500 delegates to the federation's convention opening here today.

NO GOOD FAITH

AFL-CIO President George Meany told reporters that the UTW and Distillery Workers had not acted in good faith to carry out reforms.

Meany said AFL-CIO auditors have uncovered evidence of "incredible stealing" of UTW funds. UTW officials, who resigned after being accused of misuse of union funds still were being carried on the UTW payroll.

ACTION NEEDED

Meany said the giant Teamsters Union could escape expulsion action at the convetion only if James R. Hoffa quits as Teamsters president-elect and the union accepts AFL-CIO supervision for a cleanup.

Meany displayed no worry that a resolution adopted Wednesday by the powerful AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Unions, opposing any Teamsters Union expulsion, might result in the Teamsters beating the rap.

Six Vie for Four Council Seats

It Looks Like Shoo-In for Scurrah

Indications are that Mayor Percy Scurrah will be returned to office by acclamation when nominations close at 2 p.m. today and that six candidates will seek four council seats, and three candidates two school board seats.

All four aldermen whose seats will be at stake Dec. 12—Aldermen M. H. Mooney, Geoffrey Edgelow, J. Donald Smith and Mrs. Lily Wilson—had filed their nomination papers yesterday afternoon.

So had Mrs. Sally Rogers and, latest candidate to announce his intention, Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, both of whom will compete with the incumbents for the four council seats.

William H. Williams of 2912 Quadra, school trustee Kenneth Leeming, and Alan H. Wilson, recently-appointed trustee who is seeking election, had been nominated for the two two-year school board vacancies.

Mayor Scurrah alone had filed nomination papers for the mayoralty.

Five May Speak

Election Eve Forum Set for Candidates

Jaycee public forum for Victoria aldermanic candidates will be held on election eve, Dec. 11, in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden at 8 o'clock.

Probable speakers will be five candidates who have come forward so far to contest the four council seats. They are Aldermen G. L. Edgelow, J. Donald Smith, M. H. Mooney and Mrs. Lily Wilson; and challenger Mrs. W. W. Rogers.

City nomination deadline is Thursday at 2 p.m.

Fast Ferry Service

CNR Won't State Reason for 'No'

Canadian National Railways has withheld details of the economic survey on which it claims to have based its decision not to establish a fast ferry service between Saanich Peninsula and the mainland.

"I have received another letter from the CNR that just reiterates what was said before, but doesn't give, as I requested, details of the survey," Mayor Percy Scurrah said yesterday.

This fact "rather confirmed" to him, he said, that the survey was not the real reason for rejecting the Victoria request for establishment of the ferry service.

(The mayor didn't say so, but there has been talk in civic circles of Canadian National Railways not wanting to provide competition for Canadian Pacific Railway.)

Mayor Scurrah reported new support in his continuing fight for the fast ferry service.

He had received a letter of endorsement from the Pender Island Farmers' Institute, he said, and a petition "signed by quite a number of city people" urging establishment of a service.

He said he had had no knowledge of the petition until it arrived in the office—"It shows the public is interested, which is very encouraging."

SOOKE — Minister of Lands and Forests Ray Williston will speak on northern development and show slides of the Rocky Mountain Trench area at a meeting in the Sooke Community Hall on Monday at 8 p.m.

Illuminated Trees To Be Dotted About

The city will erect four illuminated Christmas trees as usual this year, electrical superintendent Kenneth Reid said yesterday—at Fountain Circle, Pandora Green, the Junction and on the city hall balcony.

The trees will arrive Tuesday from the Sooke Lake watershed, will be installed a week from Friday and illuminated a week from Saturday.

Rally Stops Cons. Denison Stock Slump

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market closed mixed to higher after a session of reversing trends and moderate trading.

Key issues in all sections were higher on average but the picture as a whole was irregular.

Uraniums, particularly Consolidated Denison, were a feature of the mining list. Denison dipped to $9.50, a 1957 low, but closed at 10¼ points down ⅛. Over 63,000 shares changed hands.

Senior base metals were higher at the close, Hudson Bay and International Nickel each gaining about a point.

Decline in Banks

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges were undecided but closed stronger.

Most miscellaneous stocks were higher. Simon gained 6 at 33 and Dominion Glass one at 59½. In a mixed refinery group, McColl improved 1½ at 56½ but Trans-Mountain fell one to 69½.

Asbestos, selling ex-dividend, lost a point at 30½ in an otherwise fractionally firmer base metal group. Noranda gained ¾ at 39. Banks were lower. Canadian Bank of Commerce dropped 1¼ to 43 and Bank of Montreal one to 40¾. Fraser rose ¾ to 24 in a fairly steady newsprint group. Distilleries, steels and constructions showed little movement.

Western producing oils were generally lower. Home Oil A lost 1¼ at 15¼ and the B stock ¾ at 15.

Rails Alone Lag

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks advanced in all but the rail departments and trading picked up moderately from Tuesday's slow pace.

Industrial issues were strong under the leadership of the coppers, oils and shipbuilding issues.

The best showing was made in the coppers where Magma, Cerro de Pasco and International Nickel featured.

Oils met demand and most of the chemicals moved higher. Special issues registered gains running to more than three points at their best.

Ability of the list to resist selling in the previous session, plus some year-end reinvestment of funds, helped the market move ahead.

At the highs, the industrials were at their best in nearly a month.

Railroad issues lagged behind the industrials. Utilities scored a small average rise.

Industrials, with gains ranging to three points, led domestic corporate bonds irregularly higher on moderate turnover, while over-the-counter, recently strong U.S. government bond issues were marked down ⅛ to ⅜ point in quiet trading.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (Reuters) — Business was slow. Gilt-edged securities were firmer on the good gold and dollar reserve figures.

Foreign bonds and dollar stocks showed no definite trend. The feature of industrials was the firmness of steel shares. The dividend season opened with a higher distribution by Consett Iron. Tobaccos were easier and breweries much quieter than of late.

Several of the miscellaneous leaders were easier, including Hudson Bay, South African gold shares were quiet and slightly easier.

Coppers Do Best

VANCOUVER—Coppers provided some fairly active trading, with the trend higher. Bethlehem was up 11 cents at 93 cents, and Cowichan was up two cents at 84 cents. Trojan, the session's heaviest trader, lost one cent at 26 cents.

Changes were small in oils with Fort St. John making best showing with its 15-cent advance to 4.50. Van-Tor was up four cents at 1.31.

Industrials were in little demand.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—Federal and provincial issues traded quietly on an unchanged level on the Montreal bond market. The corporate market was quiet and unchanged.

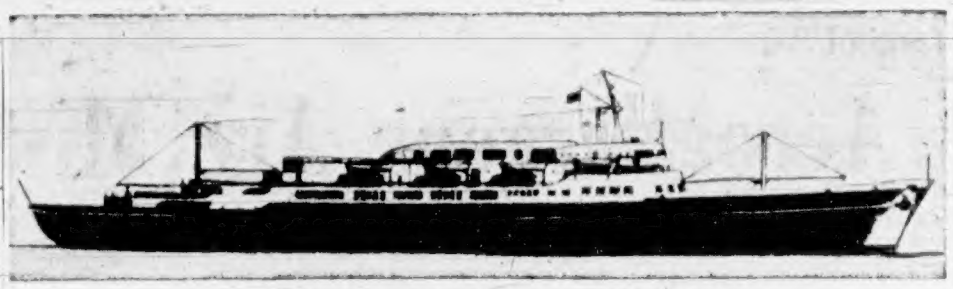
Mine May Go On

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Davie Fulton said Wednesday night he is still hopeful that an arrangement can be made to enable at least limited operations to continue at the big copper mine at Britannia Beach, B.C.

Mine manager Jack Roper had been quoted as saying the parent Howe Sound Company in New York had decided to close the mine Dec. 17.



U.S. Design for Atomic Freighter

Orders to start on this U.S. nuclear-powered merchant ship have been given by President Eisenhower. It will be the first merchant ship of the atom age and is expected to be sailing by1960. Russia is preparing an ice-breaker, but so far as is known has no plans for a merchant ship. This design, approved by the president, is expected to cost close to $21,000,000. —(CPC)

Tiny Ones Sought

Battlefield Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States designers are working at development of midget H-bombs, relatively "clean" of radioactivity, for use in battlefield warfare.

The primary objective is not so much to use the general kick of hydrogen explosives—ample power for tactical use can be packaged in an ordinary atomic explosion—but to reduce the fall-out.

The problem has been to provide a trigger for the fusion process of thermonuclear explosion without using fission explosion. Fission produces huge amounts of radioactive material; fusion much less.

Using the "shaped charge" principle in which the force of explosion can be directed such chemical charges might be aimed inward in an H-bomb to produce the reverse of an explosion, an "implosion." This terrific compression might be enough to trigger the fusion charge of the bomb.

Not a Greedy Lot!

Landlords of Greater Victoria appear to have reason to resent implications that landlords are a greedy lot.

Recent reports in Victoria indicated that some pensioners could expect to pay another $9 in rent because the old-age pension was going up $9. And a news release from the Old-Age Pensioners' Organization said executives of that group and the Senior Citizens had met and discussed "the news of the raise in pensioners' rents as soon as the pension rise was made public."

It was disappointing, the news release said, "to see the help given by the government to those needy people going into the pockets of the landlords."

But yesterday, at a meeting of the Old-Age Pensioners Group No. 5 attended by about 200 members, the president asked pensioners whose rents were being raised to stand.

None stood.

The plan will provide for expansion of both concerts, including programs for youth and more up-Island events, and the orchestra itself. Directors also decided Tuesday to stage a special drive for guarantors, who share the post-season deficit.

Contract for construction of the "shell" of the new Government House has been awarded to John Laing and Sons (Canada) Ltd., whose tender of $229,976 was the lowest of seven submitted for the job.

Work is expected to start almost immediately on the building which will replace the Old Government House which was destroyed by fire last April. When the shell is completed in three or four months time, tenders will be called for completion.

Two more districts have gone "over the top" in the residential canvass, helping to boost the Greater Victoria Community Chest total to $212,158 last night, some 88 per cent of the $251,717 goal. G. C. Warrock, 4617 Vantreight, led a team of canvassers that collected $943.50 from the Gordon Head area, and Mrs. Sheila MacFarlane, 1906 St. Anne, headed a group that raised $1,295.06 in the area bounded by Foul Bay, Beach Drive, Cranmore and Oak Bay Avenue.

Canada's "holus-bolus" immigration policy of inviting Britons to join the ranks of Canada's unemployed while jobs are plentiful in Britain was scored by a Saanich resident this week. C. H. McMillan, 971 Lodge, a one-time Saanich council candidate who just returned from a five-month holiday in Britain, said the policy is giving Canada a bad name in the United Kingdom.

This year's city voters' list totals 21,210 names, 431 more than last year's. Returning Officer M. Frank Hunter said yesterday. The list has been posted at city hall in preparation for the civic elections Dec. 12 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the public market building.

Sailor Fined For Taking City Taxi

Fine of $75 was imposed on Leo F. Baker, RCN, in city police court yesterday. He had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of taking a car without the owner's consent.

Court was told Baker had taken the car, a taxi belonging to Joe Wo, from Fisgard Street. He was taken in custody on the Malahat by Colwood RCMP.

"Where were you going?" Magistrate Henry C. Hall asked yesterday.

"I don't know, Your Honor," was the reply. "I'd been drinking."

Boosts Employment

BCE Ready With Project

As much as two months of work and about $225,000 will be involved in two miles of trenching and duct construction expected to begin this month in Saanich and Victoria, the B.C. Electric said yesterday.

The trenching and duct work will be between the George M. Tripp substation in Saanich and Summit Street, near Douglas, in Victoria.

The company said there would be little if any gap in employment between the shutdown of underground work in downtown Victoria and the start of this higher-priority project. Farmer Construction Ltd., the firm that has had the contract for the downtown work, will carry on in the new job.

The trenching will permit building of a continuous concrete duct for a 132,000-volt underground circuit joining the George Tripp substation with the new substation being built on Summit. Order for the custom-built cable was placed earlier this year, the company said.

Planned route of the trenching is by Borden, Reynolds and Quadra.

The B.C. Electric said there was also a prospect of additional trenching in its rescheduled work program, at the Summit site, where the circuits leaving the station will be underground.

Hospital Scientists . . .

Aeroallergens Are Missing!

. . . Busy with Search

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Some of our aeroallergens are missing and hundreds of Victorians are relieved.

Aeroallergens are minute particles of pollen, fungi, mold spores and hairs, ranging from tiny ones only 1-2,500th of an inch to long monsters of 1-80th of an inch.

And they cause allergies of all kinds—hay fever, stuffy nose, watery eyes, asthma and even skin eruptions.

WORST IS OVER

The worst of the so-called hay fever season is over, but a few people are still suffering from the particles in the open air.

Others are suffering from their efforts to keep their houses warm. Heating systems circulate trapped, dry air in houses and swirl dust from room to room.

Original research began in Victoria this year to find out what pollens are common here.

ROOF TRAP

From May 15 to Oct. 15 a chromed instrument looking for all the world like a store-window display stand for hats stood on top of the highest roof of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Under a circular plate, designed to keep rain away, was a glass slide coated with a sticky substance. As the pollen in the air fell on the plate it was trapped.

Each day's catch was "counted" under a microscope and a record kept of the amount and types of pollen found.

Counting and identification was carried out in the laboratory at St. Joseph's by Dr. S. S. Avren, 3026 Westdowne, and Dr. Adam Szczawinski, provincial botanist. Their records will be sent to the American Academy of Allergy for use and study by other scientists.

The pollen they trapped ranged in shape from miniature golf balls with pits to miniature sea mines with spikes all about them. One pollen, from a fir tree, has wings to help its flight.

START AGAIN

The two men hope to start their trapping again Jan. 1, to find out when pollen first starts flying, and what pollen it is. They will continue the tests through the year.

Each day's results will be made available to medical practitioners in Victoria to aid in diagnosing what aeroallergens cause allergies in patients.

Most allergies are caused by grass, weed and tree pollens—not the pollen of flowers.

TOO HEAVY

Flower pollens are generally heavier than aeroallergens and flowers rely on insects to carry the pollen about.

But the light and tiny pollens distributed by the wind are more than enough for some people. Hypersensitive people have been known to get allergic dermatitis — a skin reaction — from the oil contained in pollen.

Skin reaction has also been known to make asthma flareup.

NOT MUCH

Luckily, in this timber-rich province, there is little allergy in pollen from coniferous trees.

Immunization against the motes which affect a person is usually effective and satisfactory, but there is no cure.

The child of parents with no allergies of their own has the best hope of an allergy-free life.

Most allergies develop early in life, but one Victoria woman fell prey recently at the age of 65.

Teen Gangs Watched By Police

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Police are investigating a disturbance involving spectators at a basketball game in efforts to prevent a recurrence of teen-age gang warfare which raged here earlier this year.

Officers were called to the senior high school Friday when a fracas broke out after a game there between Prince George and Dawson Creek teams. A youth struck over the head was treated in hospital and given seven stitches to close a scalp wound.

ARTICLES SEIZED

Police said they seized articles which could have been used as weapons but no charges were laid. They said it appeared an organized gang had waited outside the school.

Principal Allen G. Stables said none of his students was involved in the incident.

New Success Plan Clicks As Cougars Blast Royals

By JIM TANG

Having unhappily arrived at the conclusion they aren't able to out-defence their Western Hockey League opponents, Victoria Cougars are making gestures at horning in on what up until now has been a three-club race in the Western Division with a wide-open, all-out attack.

The Cougars were free wheeling it again last night at Memorial Arena as they extended their first win streak of the season to three games by outscoring New Westminster Royals division leaders 6-2.

Since they started putting their accent on offensive, the Cougars have given up 10 goals in three games. With the 36 they have scored, were enough for the maximum six points.

Cougars had their lapses from time to time last night and the joy of victory shouldn't hide the fact they were still guilty of defensive blunders but there weren't as many with the Cougars having more of the puck than usual and pressuring the New Westminster defence into the mistakes which used to cause Victoria fans despair.

Royals didn't have a good game last night. Their defence was weak and their attack disappointed. Bob Bassett, who is expected to add a great deal to Royals' chances, didn't given time because they weren't given time to settle down by a Victoria club which played like a team that Lex Beatley had to lay a good game to hold the Cougars to six goals.

COUGARS RESPOND

But the Royals which had scored the Royals a flat a some good times during the game, also spoiled the Cougars of one of the most heartening things about the game was of Victoria fans were cheered was the way they club responded when it was their turn. It was their road back and it does appear that the Cougars are on it.

One of the big reasons is Ed Dorohoy who is performing as well as he ever did. Ed is outstanding with Lorne Worsley who stole some points from him last night. Ed was the star play with his of his. Ed [illegible] with his of his. Ed [illegible] and set up Doug Macauley and Stan Bentley for goals before moving in the play goal of the game.

His three points made it 11 for the past three games, and moved him within one point of the 4 time Hart trophy winner. Dorohoy now has nine points in 4 goals and 10 assists from his [illegible] Royals. Dorohoy also was responsible for the Cougars' second goal when he [illegible] Bob Lowe with a [illegible] pass. This was a special delight for the Victoria fans because Lowe was one of the WHL's most [illegible] players last season.

Lowe also was in on the play of the league scoring lead for the season with his [illegible] George Lindsay that [illegible] to stay ahead by scoring Royals' last goal last night.

FRANCIS SPARKLES

Leo Francis also played a good game in the Victoria net. [illegible] Francis [illegible] the pucks and [illegible] it again when Lou Halligan [illegible] in for the Cougars.

Less than two minutes later Stan Balluk put the Cougars ahead when he broke clear from his own zone after a shot by Ron Matthews had caromed off Colin Kilburn into centre ice. It was the first of two goals for the alert Balluk who has four goals and three assists for the four games he has played since joining the club last week.

Bryan Brown tied after a good pass from Dorohoy and Larry Leach after a fine play with Doug Macauley both missed chances before Doug Kilburn made no mistake when the puck came out to him from behind the New Westminster goal.

Ahead 2-0 the Cougars kept up pressure until late in the second period when they got momentarily disorganized and allowed Arlo Goodwin to score a goal after a succession of misses [illegible] chance.

TURNS THE TIDE

But the Cougars bounced right back. Dorohoy skilfully handled the puck away from two Royals in their quarters and laid a perfect pass for Macauley, who drove in his own rebound after Bentley had made a brilliant save of the first shot.

Macauley was back in the [illegible] of the third period stealing the puck from Fred Congdon and faking Steve Hamilton before cutting the [illegible] side with a 20-foot shot.

It seemed all over then but unfortunately the Cougars bounced so too and Art Jones put the Royals back in the game only 50 seconds later and Allan Eastman, picked on a three-minute break at 12:10 to bring it to 4-3. There were mem[illegible] of past events.

[illegible] Victoria. The Cougars [illegible] Royals grab and a close pass before it got out of Local territory wheeled [illegible] and backtracked past Hockey after making full use of Dorohoy as a decoy. Dave [illegible] made it certain at 18:05 with [illegible] off for holding Junior Wilson.

Youthful Fan Charged For Swiping Red Flag

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—A youth has been charged with theft following an incident Tuesday night in which a Russian flag was torn from the arena girders during an exhibition hockey game between the touring Russians and Kingston CKLCs.

During the game a youth shinnied up into the girders and threw down the flag, flying above the ice. He was apprehended but another person escaped into the crowds with the flag which was not recovered.

The Russians won the game 4-2.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Victoria lost a popular and familiar figure on Tuesday when Wally Smith passed away after a brief illness. Death was unexpected to relatives and close friends who had hoped he would be able to leave hospital this week and come as a shock to his many friends in all parts of Canada who were aware of his illness.

Wally didn't [illegible] as a live in sports living the past few years. He was in the 1940's when he was active in sports he found many sports galleries in the city either as an official or a spectator. He was an active interest in sports.

He is known to most as a fellow who managed and coached basketball, softball and Canadian football using but he was a fine athlete as a wrestler and now a weight problem kept him from participating in active sports [illegible]

As a teenager Wally played basketball, softball and lacrosse as well as several other sports. Old Locals remember him as a clever trickster player who put everything he had into the game he was playing. In 1937 he was moved to the all-star team picked after a junior basketball tournament sponsored by a Seattle newspaper. He played four years of junior softball and also played junior lacrosse.

He was still a youngster when increasing weight ended his athletic playing career but not his association with sports. He [illegible] [illegible] for 12 years and [illegible] the same experience for basketball [illegible] the Oak Bay Golfettes and Victoria Mustangs in Canadian football.

A serious illness a few years back interrupted his active [illegible] in sports and while he never lost his interest in the sports [illegible] he wasn't seen as often on the sidelines. Friends [illegible] from time to time and saw him often enough to recall the days when he was helping make the sports news but they never realized how much he had been missed until Tuesday. But they'll remember most the things that Wally missed. At 45 he had so much left to see.

Pros Select Own 'All-America' Team

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (AP) — The pros who see things in college football the rest of us don't pick their own "All-America" team in the fall to celebrate draft at Philadelphia and surprisingly named a little-known halfback and a team that lost seven games.

Ever hear of Mike Sommer of George Washington? He was the third backfield man selected and the Washington Redskins who know all about him picked up a flock of glamour boys to grab speedy Mike on the first round.

Also selected on the "first team" were end Willard Dewveall of Southern Methodist, guards Joseph Jacobs of California and Charley Hoffman of West Virginia, who [illegible] headliners during the season.

A [illegible] were the top [illegible] picks to be [illegible] with number in parentheses denoting the order in which they were drafted.

[illegible] Jerry Phillips All [illegible] Dewveall [illegible] Los Angeles Rams, [illegible] and Alex Karras, Iowa (10), guards. Charles Howley, West Virginia [illegible] and Joseph Jacobs, California (18), center. Dan Currie, Michigan State (1), backs, Kenny Hill, Texas [illegible] John Crow, Texas A. and M. [illegible] Mike Sommer, George Washington (3), West Kowalczyk, Michigan State 6.

These are the college seniors for whom the pros had the highest regard as potential professionals.

The Chicago Bears pulled Dewveall and Howley. Philadelphia landed Jacobs and Kowalczyk, the Los Angeles Rams selected Phillips and Michaels. Detroit picked up Karras, Green Bay selected Currie while the Chicago Cards drew Hill and Crow.

But strange are the ways of the pros in their dealings with college stars. The pro game is a different kettle of fish entirely. By most fan standards such offensive stars as Hill and Crow may be on the defensive portion of the Cardinals and Phillips may wind up at halfback for the Rams.

This sound [illegible] backs back to the old days of pro football and a recent case was Red Grange. The greatest runner of them all who wound up with the Bears as one of the game's finest defensive halfbacks.

Elroy Hirsch of the Rams, now an end, was a halfback in college. [illegible] of Illinois, whose one of college's [illegible] halfbacks, [illegible] but now is a top defensive performer [illegible]

Ed Meadows, a star tackle at Maryland, is an end for the Rams. Ron Kramer, Michigan's power end, is a slot back for the Packers. Ray Renfro, Georgia's star halfback, is a defensive [illegible] for the Browns. Mike Lucci, Ohio State's All-America, is playing end for the Eagles.

It is no wonder the pros look for things in college football that the rest of us don't.

Trimble Promotes East-West Battle Into Grudge Game

MONTREAL (BUP)—The opposing coaches in the East-West Shrine game seem to be making a grudge battle out of Saturday's set-to in Montreal.

At least one coach is Jim Trimble, the coach of the Hamilton Tiger Cats which routed Bud Grant's Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 32-7, last Saturday in the national championship Grey Cup game.

What makes the situation even more interesting is that the two principals are a teacher-pupil combination. Trimble was coach of the Philadelphia Eagles when Grant was a star offensive end for the same club.

But when Trimble rated that Grant rated his Tiger Cats no better than the British Columbia Lions, who finished fourth in the Western Conference this year. Trimble apparently decided the time of diplomacy was over.

Trimble went along with Grant's explanation of Lions' contribution to the upended Grey Cup result but he saw red when it came to rating his team fourth-raters.

The insult moved Trimble to predict before a television audience Tuesday night that his Eastern team would beat the West's all-stars by at least four touchdowns . . . and further more he predicted the East would also hold the highly feared West scoreless.

Big Jim's only problem now is getting the eastern players to believe they are as good as he says they are. A year ago Trimble stepped in to substitute for Peahead Walker as the coach of the eastern all-stars and the west clobbered him 19-0. In the only other Shrine game the two teams played to a 6-6 tie.

Grant's reaction to his former coach's remarks has been mild.

"First of all," he told the British United Press, "I never said that Hamilton was a fourth-rate ball club. What I said was that Hamilton played a lot like British Columbia. This, both are the kind of team that takes advantages of all the breaks."

SHAKES HIS HEAD

And in answer to Trimble's prediction about the all-star game Grant just shook his head and said:

"Maybe he's just trying to sell tickets . . . which of course is a very good idea."

Meanwhile, both coaches had their fan-picked troops out working on snow-covered gridirons, the west on the frozen turf of Molson Stadium where the game will be played and the east at the Westmount Athletic Grounds, normal practice field for the Montreal Alouettes.

Grant said he planned to use Frank Tripucka of Saskatchewan at quarterback and Jackie Parker of Edmonton, who plays either position, at half-back. His other halfback will be Leo Lewis of Winnipeg and his two fullbacks Gerry James of Winnipeg and By Bailey of British Columbia.

Along the offensive line Grant will have Jack Gotta of Calgary and Ernie Pitts of Winnipeg at the ends; Edmonton's Reed Henderson and Roger Nelson at tackle, Winnipeg's John Michales and Hal Whitley at guard and George Druxman, also of Winnipeg, at centre.

The CBC has announced that Saturday's game will be televised live from Montreal over its Vancouver TV Station, channel 2, starting at 9.55 a.m.

Brown Stops Lopes to Retain Crown

Joe Brown put all his power in a few punches last night to keep his world lightweight championship with a technical knockout over Joey Lopes at 1.50 of the 11th round of their scheduled 15-round title bout at Chicago.

Brown, who had dropped the Sacramento challenger for a four-count in the seventh round, smashed Lopes to the canvas [illegible] ing heavy punishment on his dazed, helpless opponent when referee Joey White called a halt.

Two of the officials had Brown out in front at the end of 10 rounds and referee White had scored it even at 45-45 to that point. But it appeared that it was only a matter of time before Brown's heavier punches would wear down his light-hitting opponent.

Lopes who held Brown to a draw in a previous bout carried the battle to the champion during most of the scrap but he didn't carry the heavy guns. Brown waited his chance for sharp counter punches while dancing back from the 4-to-1 [illegible]

Chicago White Sox pulled off their second major trade in less than 24 hours yesterday when they traded their No. 1 right handed power hitter, Minnie Minoso, and utility infielder Fred Hatfield to Cleveland Indians for pitcher Early Wynn and outfielder Al Smith.

On Tuesday night, the Chisox gave up left-handed slugger Larry Doby and pitcher Jack Harshman for three Baltimore players including pitcher Jim Moore.

New Cleveland general manager Frank Lane, who kept the American League in a dither with his numerous trades that lifted the White Sox out of the second division before he left Chicago for St. Louis in 1956, said yesterday that "this is just the beginning."

The 34-year-old Minoso batted .310 last season, drove in 103 runs and hit 12 home runs. Wynn key player as far as the White Sox were concerned, won 11 games and lost 17 in 1957. He was a four-time 20-game winner with the Indians and owns a lifetime record of 235 victories and 197 defeats.

There were other trade rumors in the offing yesterday. Philadelphia is offering pitcher Robin Roberts and outfielder Richie Ashburn as proposed deals for younger talent.

Ashburn and pitcher Harvey Haddix were offered by the Phils for St. Louis third baseman Ken Boyer but the deal was rejected. Cincinnati offered an outfielder, reportedly Wally Post, for Roberts and the Phils responded by asking for centre-fielder Gus Bell in the exchange but the swap failed.

Three members of Cleveland Browns lead the NFL in offensive honors. Rookie Jimmy Brown heads the rushing department with 836 yards in 171 tries; Tommy O'Connell is top passer with 63 completions for 1,229 yards on 110 passes, and [illegible] the scoring race with 66 points . . . Full-Scale Soccer Riot

Italian Players Attacked By Enraged Belfast Crowd

BELFAST, Northern Ireland—Players of the Italian national soccer team were mauled yesterday in one of the worst riots in recent football history.

An enraged crowd of 50,000 Irishmen broke down barriers, battled with police and mobbed the Italians at the end of the incident-ridden "friendly" game between Italy and Northern Ireland that ended in a 2-2 tie.

The two Catholic countries were marking the feast day of St. Barbara, patron saint of fireworks.

The Italian players, representing a total investment of $1,000,000 and some Irish players trying to protect them were stoned, kicked and beaten up by the mob.

Some players had to be carried off on stretchers but none appeared to be badly hurt. Worst casualty was centre half Bruno Ferrario, knocked unconscious with kicks that almost broke his jaw and badly bruised his ribs.

Squads of police raced on the field, pushed back the excited Irishmen with a baton charge, arrested several persons, then made a way for the Italians to return to their dressing room.

The riot started when an Italian player was sent off the field by Northern Ireland referee Tommy Mitchell for jumping with both feet at an Irishman.

The match should have been part of the World Cup. But it was turned into a "friendly" game because of the non-arrival of a Hungarian referee, fogbound in London.

Trautman Blames Big Names For Baseball's Current Woes

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—National Baseball Association President George Trautman angrily blamed some of baseball's biggest names, including the Wrigleys, Yankeys, Busches, Toppings and the Webbs . . . for the game's current troubles.

His face red with ire and his voice showing obvious emotion, Trautman reeled off the names of major league owners and admitted they were "extremely successful" in everything they did.

"Now I ask these same gentlemen how they can permit their baseball structure to topple?" Trautman said.

Trautman included Phil Wrigley of the Cubs, Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox, Gussie Busch of the Cardinals, John Galbreath of the Pirates, Bob Carpenter of the Phillies and Dan Topping and Del Webb of the Yankees in his scorching indictment delivered at the national baseball convention here.

Referring to a recently published dispatch which charged baseball with lack of leadership, Trautman said bluntly:

"Some of the people in baseball are very selfish. It grieves me no end that the finger is pointed at us as lacking leadership. This game is my life and I want to preserve it. How are you going to get leadership when you can get no followers?"

INVESTIGATION

Trautman disclosed that a seven-man committee has been formed to determine how far the major league teams to go in its program of television expansion. He was speaking of the majors' plan to have a TV game of the week on Sundays as well as Saturdays.

Trautman made it clear that if the majors go through with their Sunday TV plan, the minor leagues will carry the suit to the highest court, if necessary, in an attempt to halt the TV invasion of their territory.

Frank Shaugnessy, president of the International League, already has announced the league's intention of bringing suit against the majors if they go through with their plan to have a Sunday TV game.

Trautman also said that "the minors enjoyed their healthiest year in 1949, when their were no television networks. We drew 41,000,000 people that year. We drew only 17,000,000 this year. Why? Major Saturday TV networks came upon us in 1950. Then we came in for the Saturday afternoon televised game. Now we are threatened with a Sunday afternoon game. Why Sunday is our pay day."

Name Dedicate Turf Champion

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Dedicate, who carried high weight in handicaps in which he finished this year, was named champion older horse of 1957 Wednesday by the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

The five-year-old bay son of Princequillo, bred by John P. Greer, is owned by Mrs. Ian Ross of Miami Beach and New York. Dedicate, who was three-time winner, was disqualified after winning a fourth, was retired to stud last month.

Racing at Pimlico Cancelled by Snow

PIMLICO — A two-inch snow fall forced the Maryland Jockey Club to cancel racing for yesterday and today. It was the first time anyone around the 67-year-old track can remember weather forcing cancellation.

The eight races scheduled yesterday were called off when it was discovered that the wet snow was balling up on the horses' hoofs, making effective running impossible.

Garden Notes

Berry-Bejewelled

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

This is the season of the year when most of the color in our gardens comes from the berried shrubs and this is just a reminder to suggest that some of these attractive specimens should be planned now for in the garden.

My bushes of Cotoneaster horizontalis stretching their herring-bone branches flat against our house wall are bejewelled with scarlet berries. The fruits must be bitter or unattractive to the birds for they are seldom touched until other food becomes scarce.

The Firethorn too is ablaze with orange berries and I am hoping our feathered friends will leave enough of them to provide a few cut branches for Christmas decoration.

Probably the most readable of all the berried shrubs are the Barberries, for these don't give a hoot what kind of soil they grow in, nor whether they face north, south, east or west. They flower put on a grand display in the spring, then berries in the winter, and some of them turn their leaves a brilliant scarlet in the fall truly an all-purpose shrub family. Berberis Thunbergii and Berberis Prattii make excellent hedges too.

* * *

While the southern tip of Vancouver Island is without doubt the [illegible] for growing [illegible] the whole of Canada, it is well to remember that we have our problem spots too. There are low-lying areas which become frost pockets in the spring where the buds and flowers of early blooming shrubs are seared, and where the blossoms of fruit trees never set fruit.

We have our districts too where soil drainage is poor. Water lies heavy on the land through the winter drowning the roots of our choice plants. And we have waterfront locations where high winds and salt spray restrict the varieties of plants which can be grown successfully. These problem spots are difficult but not hopeless. There is always an answer to every challenge.

One stunt I have seen used successfully on soggy, poorly-drained land is to plant shrubs and fruit trees right on the surface with no planting hole taken out at all. The roots are spread over the surface and a good soil mixture mounded up over them with of course ready efficient staking to hold the trees steady throughout its life. Those trees were thriving and fruiting heavily, even though the ground was covered with inches of water in spring.

In areas subject to late spring frosts it is best to stick to subjects of undisputable hardiness. A few good shrubs which can take anything our weather can dish out are the Mock Oranges with their scented white blossoms. Weigelas in pinks and reds; the ever-growing Lilacs which [illegible] media specialists. Deutzias could be [illegible] very strong growing and attractive, and Ribes sanguineum, the Flowering Currant, an excellent windbreak and hedge for cold, bleak locations.

A salt-resistant windbreak is the answer to the storms. Waterfront garden. Two of the best shrubs for this purpose are Atriplex halimus, with silver-grey foliage and Escallonia langleyensis which covers itself with tiny pink bellflowers.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

Biggest Theme of All

Just when eggheads are beginning to think CBS-TV happens to come up with a program designed to [illegible] a better understanding of the scientist and his work. Although the program was been in preparation for a year or so, it couldn't be better timing. A better idea or a much better show.

Said Fred Sevareid, "Conquest is most ancient narrative.

"A Good if discovery is sweeping down the short and narrow stream bed of human history. It has to swept with it. Conquest itself is a trait. We want to help penetrate the wall that separates the man in the laboratory from the rest of us."

* * *

This beautifully expressed is the theme of the show and [illegible] TV show of this or any other season. All through the hour show this idea that mankind far from being a knowledgeable animal is simply on the brink of mental discovery keeps recurring.

Right at the outset was an interview with Dr. Wendell Stanley, director of the virus laboratory at the University of California who declared:

"This may sound strange to you but in the laboratory we look upon the virus as a potential source of great good for it is the container of man's greatest secret, the nucleic acid code. Is it not reasonable to expect that ultimately we'll control the genetic forces of life, varying the generation of plants, animals and human beings to order."

* * *

That certainly is a three-headed and one-tailed Mr. Sevareid certainly never heard of in his youth.

There were three major filmed segments of the first show: the first concerning the edge of life, the second Dr. Ewing's explorations of the bottom of the sea and last and most interesting "Project Man High" in which Maj. David Simons, head of the U.S. Air Forces space [illegible] about to spend 32 hours [illegible] in a capsule [illegible] 100 miles above the earth in a balloon.

[illegible] were not in the home of something old in the [illegible] of some pretty scary discoveries.

The next conquest will be in lasers and it will among other things tell the story of Dr. Jr. Lunar Allen, the astronaut who by redesigning rockets and thrusters has solved the problem of getting objects to return to earth from space without burning up through friction with the atmosphere.

Hollywood Today

Tony Martin Back in Swing

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Tony Martin's movie career was [illegible] he is full swing again. He doesn't resemble Humphrey Bogart, but Ray Stark is giving up the Bogart role in the remake of "Dead End" in my Secret. The original stars were Ann Sheridan and George Raft in addition to Bogart. Alan Marshal from [illegible] is Imperial Hotel to be filmed in Japan by Steve Parker.

* * *

Joan Collins is [illegible] to be tied [illegible] gave permission for her to star on Broadway in "Captain's Paradise" with Tony Randall and Abbe Lane. In the musical she has been taking singing lessons.

* * *

Gary Cooper is the latest Hollywood celebrity to join in wax absentia. Madame Tussaud's museum in London.

* * *

With "Onionhead" almost finished Andy Griffith and his wife will go home to North Carolina for Christmas after his Dec. 22 date with Dinah Shore on her TV show.

* * *

David Niven is happily awaiting the script of Ellery Queen's story of Leslie Howard's fatal flight to England via Lisbon during the last war. Compton McKenzie has written the movie from the best-selling novel. Herbert Wilcox will produce and Niven is very keen on the project. Leslie was a great friend of mine. David met me during a Brown Derby lunch. He was a special agent for the government, you know.

* * *

The real casualty when Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis decided to split up was their long-time pal and music composer Dick Stabile. Dick's work arrangement has just [illegible] with an album recorded for Tops Records. Also his new band goes out shortly on tour.

* * *

Jayne Mansfield is taking her mother and father on the honeymoon with Mickey Hargitay, in the French Alps. It was Mickey's idea, beamed the figure. When this plan in the French Alps invited me to bring my mommy and daddy, we just had to accept." The wedding is scheduled for early January.

* * *

Laurence Olivier will probably stand his "Macbeth" movie in England because he spent too much in Scotland.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: ♡ A

[illegible] a preemptive bid when your hand includes defensive strength and when you are not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents and when you have the commanding suit spades. As a matter of tactics, therefore, a one-spade bid is to be preferred since four spades is not in the cards and three notrump can not be made against a club opening or a heart opening as a club shift might have been more profitable had South chosen the one-spade opening.

However, it wasn't South's bidding of which North was [illegible] critical. It was his play. East played the three of diamonds. At South had to decide whether or not West diamond was to drop his deuce. Since he could diamond only one card on [illegible] fourth diamond it would be mastered if the opponents persisted in a couple of rounds before South got the lead. The fourth diamond would take care of South's fifth club and bring home the game.

But South was generous. He did for East what East could not do for himself. He made East, the special nine, like a [illegible] signal by passing the seven from his hand. West noted the absence of the deuce and [illegible] continued the diamonds. It didn't much matter that after ruffing the second diamond East didn't guess to lead back a heart and get an [illegible] diamond ruff. His club play enabled South to save a trick by [illegible] in with the ace. But the most of had been done and the contract could not be made.

Reports are current that Sinatra is making as much as $1,000,000 this year. Asked if such figures were true:

Pulp Workers' Strike

Wicks Can't Intervene

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks is understood to have told Vancouver Island labor leaders yesterday that he could not intervene in the pulp workers strike unless both parties in the dispute ask him to do so.

No official statement was forthcoming after a meeting between a five-man committee representing the Vancouver Island Trades Council and the minister yesterday afternoon.

"Certain things were aired and we had a very healthy discussion," said Mr Wicks "but I have nothing else to say at the present time."

The meeting came as more than 1,000 construction workers lost their second day of work at four strikebound mills. These men had been stopped from going on the job by striking pulp workers picket lines.

The delegation sought to have a meeting arranged between the striking workers and seven companies involved.

Now in Fourth Week

Nobody Moving To End Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — A strike of 6,000 workers in the British Columbia pulp and paper industry, which is costing the province $4,500,000 a week in lost production, is entering its fourth week.

No negotiations have been held between unions and management and none are planned. The seven companies involved say they will negotiate only on the basis of the report of a conciliation board which suggested a 7½ per cent increase. The unions want a 12-per-cent raise.

"The employers are trying to destroy us," says international vice president John Sherman of the Pulp and Sulphite Workers Union.

HIGHEST PAID

The companies say their present minimum of $1.72 and average earnings of $2.30 an hour are the highest paid in the industry in Canada. A 7½ per cent increase would raise them to $1.85 and $2.40 respectively.

Meanwhile at least 1,000 workers in industries dependent on the pulp and paper business have been laid off as a result of the strike. The province's coastal shipping has been severely reduced and mill towns are feeling the loss of the $1,000,000 a week payroll.

The strikers have developed ingenious methods of keeping their living costs within their strike pay, about $15 a week for married men.

At Prince Rupert one crew collects and chops driftwood on the beaches. Another hunts moose and a third operates a grocery store.

City Student Wins Prize For Essay

Philip Oakley of Victoria, a fourth-year forestry student at the University of B.C., has won first prize in the Western Forestry essay contest.

His winning paper was on "Experimental Spraying of the Black-Headed Bud Worm."

He will receive $100 and an all-expenses-paid trip to Seattle Dec. 11 to read his paper at the annual conference of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association.

A former Victoria College student, Mr Oakley lives at 1490 York Place.

Generals Fall in Revolt Over Kilt

LONDON (CP) — Two distinguished British generals have become the first casualties in the battle of the kilt versus the trews.

And despite a strong rear guard action by the entire 2nd Highland Light Infantry it now is virtually certain that the battle has gone to the trews.

The war office announced Wednesday that Major Gen. F. Lakewell-Smith and Maj Gen. R. F. Urquhart have resigned as [illegible] respective [illegible] Regiment, and the Highland Regiment.

Their resignations were demanded by the army council after the two officers were unable to agree on a common uniform for [illegible] to wear, trews, and the army council let the army [illegible] plan announced last summer. The trews-kilt amalgamation was part of a big-scale army reorganization now under way. [illegible] formed in 1678 always have worn trews, tight-legged tartan trousers.

Next Election

Tories Predict B.C. Comeback

Provincial Conservatives will make a great comeback in the next provincial election, in the opinion of Eric Charman, president of the Victoria PC Federal Constituency Association.

Mr. Charman [illegible] comments at Victoria Chamber [illegible] that the CCF had hit its maximum and would only lose ground in the future.

The Liberals would not elect a single member in the next provincial election and Social Credit had lost the confidence of the [illegible] and fill of people in BC and was crumbling from top to bottom, he declared.

"LAST GOVERNMENT"

"Social Credit has formed the last government it will ever form in BC," he said in the latest of a series of public addresses from all parties to the students.

One of the reasons for the Conservative comeback he said was the fact that the poorer and more young people working for it than any other party in the history of BC.

Mr. Charman said Social Credit was born as a result of a mixed-up political situation in the province and that Premier Bennett had seized the opportunity and romped to power.

EXTRA PORTFOLIOS

He criticized both the premier and Attorney General Robert Bonner for holding down two portfolios each.

Mr. Charman said it was significant that holding down the extra portfolios enabled Mr. Bonner and the premier to continue their dealings with such people as Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren "without having to consult with another single man in BC."

Where Are Churchmen In Unemployment Fight?

Labor Scores Clergy

The church should be active in the fight to resolve unemployment but has failed to accept an invitation to take part in meetings of the Victoria Winter Employment Committee, Donald S. Douglas, shipwrights' union business agent, told Victoria Labor Council last night.

Not a single representative of Victoria churches attended a committee meeting, he said.

"Of all organizations, the church should be in this fight," he said. "If they are not, they are remiss in their duties to mankind."

Many of those singing Christmas carols this year about "peace on earth, good will to men" will be "hypocrites," Mr. Douglas said.

"I sincerely feel that if Christ came back to this earth he would surely disown a lot of so-called disciples."

Car Salesmen

The council also asked union principal and provincial police forces to enforce the laws regarding requirements for lights and reflectors on bicycles.

Edwin Haw, IWA delegate, condemned people who sell cars for [illegible] to be consented at the annual meeting of the safety council last week.

"If we are going to make the roads, highways and streets safe to drive on, we are going to have to do something about it," he said. "It is no use [illegible] on the roads. If we are not going to be safe at home or on the highways."

Strikers' Aid

Victoria Labor Council should not publicly support the striking pulp and paper workers, electricians union delegate Jack Driscoll said last night.

However, council disagreed and decided to make a token contribution of $10.

Mr. Driscoll said he could "see going along with the motion before. He said there was a drastic change in this situation.

More than 1,000 construction workers have now been cut off from their work by pickets, he said, and will be applying for unemployment insurance. One of the factors involved in getting benefits, he said, is whether they have aided the strikers.

What's Cooking!

By Frances Thompson

Tasty Dish Created From Tongue Remains

Naturally it's difficult if not impossible always to hit the nail on the head regarding suggestions for leftovers. For instance yesterday I featured a recipe for using up the remains of a roast of beef the day before it was a suggestion for leftover veal. But no that didn't fill the need of Mrs. M. C. With a wonderful Irish brogue she phoned to say As a lover of tongue and thought, enjoyed a pickled tongue last weekend I had run a recipe for it the previous weekend but that she was stuck for an idea as to what to do with the remains.

Not unnaturally she wanted something hot and satisfying for these rather chilly days and since her family are more or less grown up the following tasty suggestion should please her, as I hope it will you.

TONGUE MEDLEY ON MACARONI

(4 to 6 servings)

Quarter cup salad oil, 1 cup cooked small white onions, ½ cup sliced stuffed green olives, 2 cups diced cooked tongue; 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce; 1½ cups cooked peas; ⅛ teaspoon dry mustard; 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish; salt and pepper to taste; 2 cups (8 ounces) elbow macaroni, cooked in 4 quarts boiling salted water. Heat salad oil, add onions and olives and cook until onions are very lightly browned. Add tongue and tomato sauce and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally for about 15 minutes. Add peas and seasonings and reheat gently. Meanwhile in another saucepan add 1 tablespoon salt to the rapidly boiling water and add the macaroni gradually so that water continues to boil. Cook rapidly (uncovered) till tender, stirring occasionally with a wooden fork a 'must' in every kitchen if ever there was one then rinse quickly with hot water and drain well. Turn the macaroni on to hot platter and top with the tongue mixture. P.S. If the latter gets too thick dilute it with any left over stock, or maybe tomato juice.

While on the subject of macaroni here's a good-tasting and filling salad. The following might well serve as the main evening meal.

TUNA FISH AND MACARONI SALAD

(about 6 servings)

One can (7 ounces) tuna fish drained and broken up, 1 cup chopped celery, ½ cup chopped sweet pickle; 2 cups cooked shell-shaped macaroni; ½ cup mayonnaise; about 2 tablespoons French dressing; seasonings to taste.

Mix mayonnaise with French dressing and seasonings. Toss in rest of ingredients and mix lightly. Serve in lettuce cups, or on shredded lettuce, on individual plates. Garnish with parsley and accompany with additional dressing.

And now for our Christmas recipe. As most of you by now know, we are featuring at least one suggestion each day for the coming festive season. This is an alternative to the more orthodox mincemeat recipe we ran recently. Unlike that one, this suggestion should not be made very far in advance, so if it appeals will you clip it and not lose it!?

CRANBERRY MINCEMEAT

(makes generous filling for one 9-inch pie)

Half cup cranberries; ½ cup raisins, ½ cup boiling water; juice and grated rind of 1 orange; juice and grated rind of 1 lemon; 1 tablespoon shortening; ½ cup sugar; ½ teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves; ¼ teaspoon cinnamon; 2 tablespoons sugar; 1 apple, finely chopped.

Cook cranberries and raisins in the boiling water for about 5 minutes. Add the other ingredients and mix well. Use within a day or two at the latest.

TRICK OF THE DAY

I am the proud owner of a complete set of those lovely stainless steel saucepans with copper bottoms—given me as a parting present when I left Toronto. But the rather ticklish problem has always been how to keep those copper bottoms sparkling bright. Yes, I know there are various commercial products on the market supposed to do the job but Mrs. J. F. came up with this home made, inexpensive idea which works wonderfully . . . "Combine equal proportions of flour and salt. Mix to a smooth paste with vinegar and keep in a screw-topped jar under the sink."

Plan Dance

GANGES—Mrs. Mary Fellows presided at the recent meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association held in the Salt Spring Island School.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $159.87.

It was voted to donate $5 to the local branch of the National Film Board towards expenses.

Mrs. M. Ward reported 53 children had been registered at the dental clinic.

For the Boxing Day dance, Mrs. M. Sober was appointed convener with Mrs. R. Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. Dodds, Mrs. Fellows and Mrs. White assisting, and Christmas treats will be in charge of Mrs. K. Galbraith.

The pennant for this month was won by Mrs. J. F. de Macedo's Grade 2.

Mrs. Hepburn gave a talk on "Standards of Education" and at the next meeting a colored film of the RCMP musical ride will be shown.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Green, Mrs. Reid and Mrs. S. Rogers.

BAZAAR THURSDAY

Craigflower Women's Institute will hold a Christmas bazaar on Thursday, Dec. 5 at 7.30 p.m. in the View Royal Community Hall. Feature of the evening will be bingo. There will also be stalls of home cooking, dolls, clothes, sewing, knitting and candy. Cookies and coffee will be served.

Christmas Decorating Can Be Family Affair

TORONTO (CP) — In the Christmas tradition, many families are finding an old fashioned appeal in saving for a "special item for the home."

By giving the house a gift the whole family can join in. It might be almost anything—a brass knocker for the door, steak knives, or a Christmas tablecloth.

The best holiday news is one in which all members of the family from the smallest to the biggest pitch in to help decorate. Youngsters find trimming the tree especially exciting if they help to make the paper and glitter ornaments.

MODERN LOOK

Traditional trees take on a modern look when coordinated with color scheme of the room and packages beneath it. Trees can be trimmed with cellophane starbursts, wax fruit, Christmas baubles, tinsel and snow.

For a small tree try painting the bucket white, dramatized with lengths of ribbon—this shows off the base. Deck the tree with your prettiest cards fastened with pins.

Scissors, stapler, bright papers, seals and sequins can be used for the ornaments.

As an added touch decorate a frame with pine boughs, fresh fruit, gourds and Christmas bells. This makes a handsome trophy against green felt.

A merry St. Nick to greet guests at the door is simple to make. Just staple paper domes to the door and top with a knotted red tea towel using small Christmas balls for the eyes and nose.

For a party buffet table, a centrepiece of greens anchored in ball of chicken wire and sprayed with coral paint. A Christmas table can glow with color by using the simplest of centrepieces: silver candelabra, green garlands topped with glittering ornaments.

Five giant candles set in a clump of evergreens or surrounded by a ground cover of ivy make a striking holiday decoration for the yard.

Construct candles from three inch galvanized "plain leader" that heating, ventilating and plumbing dealers sell. Cut stanchions lengths from about 30 to 40 inches and trim tops to look as if the candles burn unevenly. Candles can be painted give the effect you are looking for.

Gift Sale Dec. 7

The Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League held their regular meeting Monday, Dec. 2, in the Blue Room.

The new project being planned is a Christmas gift sale at the Legion Hall, Britannia Branch, on the Arena Way, on Saturday, Dec. 7, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Coffee and cookies will also be sold.

Plans are going ahead for the Mardi Gras Ball which will be held in the Empress Hotel on Feb. 14.

The members are looking forward to the annual Christmas decorating party on Dec. 15. Members will decorate the wards and halls for the children in the Solarium at Cobble Hill.

A welcome was extended to three new members, Miss Ruth Harris, Mill Lillian Knighton and Miss Lorna Surgenor. Miss Barbara Richardson received her membership pin.

Anyone wishing information regarding membership, may phone the president, Mrs. Gwen Carrier, at 2-0076.

The Woman's Association of Belmont Avenue United Church are holding their Christmas Bazaar on Dec. 6 at 2.30 p.m. The affair will be opened by Mrs. T. Lanceley, wife of the minister. Stalls featured will be candy, white elephant, home-cooking, aprons. Afternoon tea will be served. Novelties and Christmas cards will also be on sale.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

PERSONALIZED FASHIONS. Have you ever entered a room and found another woman wearing the same outfit as you? It can happen and has! There is a way, though, to make a costume distinctively yours, however many times it may have been duplicated. Accessories turn the trick, those that express your individuality.

For a winter coat, it could be a fur touch, hat, bag or scarf in any skin from raccoon to sable. It could be a cape glove or caught stocking for a daytime dress, a hat in the same fabric as a tweed suit, stone jewellery of the Chanel genre and bronze or moire kid pumps for an after six costume.

It could be, but what will it be? Whatever your selection, be sure they reflect your own personality. They cannot fail, then, to stamp your fashions as exclusive. Inimitable as your handwriting!

YOUR MOST FLATTERING COLORS

In fashion nothing makes you lovelier than color. It can enhance your skin, hair, eyes and figure, it can express your individuality and style. Great powers, those! To learn how to put them to work for you, read our leaflet, "Your Most Flattering Colors." To obtain a copy, send your request to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin.

Has Missing Child Been Murdered?

SYCAMORE, Ill. (CP) — Eight planes and 1,000 volunteers searched fruitlessly yesterday for a missing seven-year-old girl and authorities said it appeared she had been kidnapped and murdered.

FBI agents joined state, city and county police in the search. Officials said they could not recall the case of a child who had disappeared without a trace and 24 hours afterward no appearance of the blue-eyed, blond Maria Ri[illegible] dolph.

Her parents, mechanic Mike [illegible] and Rudolph school [illegible] dead, she would be too frightened to stay out all night by herself.

"If the person who kidnapped [illegible] is holding [illegible] for a ransom, he or she would have done so [illegible]," she said. "It was a little mistake. God makes mistakes. We would don't cry. Don't make a fuss. We'll be with you soon."

Deputy Sheriff R. C. Anderson said most authorities feared the grieving mother's worst fears would prove correct.

"Her guess is well and her body may be somewhere in the fields or woods," he said.

Maria was apparently abducted by a passer-by from a vacant garage near her home. Her mother said Maria, 5 feet 2 inches and [illegible] pounds, was wearing a blue [illegible] and sweater ensemble.

Mrs. [illegible] said Maria was playing near a neighbor's house [illegible] when a woman [illegible] to take her on a piggy back ride.

'Program Leads Nowhere'

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Criticism of the curriculum for first secondary school students has been made by grade nine representatives of School District No. 24.

Mr. [illegible] Superintendent Fred Marquart said the general program is a hodge-podge of subjects which leads nowhere for the students.

The representatives expressed concern that one course of compulsory mathematics is included.

Courses in the Group of Classes and mathematics are essential for any student participating in the business.

We are getting good money or schools [illegible] don't learn a thing, he added.

Lack of discipline [illegible] lack schools [illegible] up to [illegible] Light of Hong Kong. Why [illegible] money for more money [illegible] and more discipline [illegible] teaching should be at [illegible].

I suggest that apart from a lot of social studies and the pure decent manners, should be taught, he said.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

The Free Church of Scotland has protested to the British government about "the position of increasing dominance secured by the Roman Catholic church in BBC sound and TV programs."

The Scots noted that some BBC employees have formed a Catholic Radio Guild to secure ever-increasing time for Catholic matters. BBC replied it will continue its policy of one part in ... in church programming. In the U.S., meanwhile, ABC radio has withdrawn its decision to cancel all religious programs. Affiliated stations protested that they needed their shares of the $20,000-a-week revenue resulting from the shows.

* * *

LATE REPORT: CBUT and CHEK-TV announced just before press time that they will be carrying the Shrine game between Canada's east and west all-star football players Saturday morning. The telecast starts on both channels 2 and 6 at 9:55 a.m. and will be "live" brought here through NBC as was the Grey Cup game. There was doubt the game would be seen because CBC couldn't get a national sponsor, but CBC decided to bring it to B.C. anyway, without a firm sponsorship.

* * *

TV BITS: Victoria's Irene Byatt plays a villain in CBC Folio caveman musicomedy tonight "House on 92nd Street" leads a fair list of old movies . . . There won't be many special Christmas shows this year. Only big ones so far are "Junior Miss" and "Amahl and the Night Visitors" . . . BBC TV will show the recent GM special as "The Pursuit of Happiness" . . . The NFB film System has released 10 more 20th Century Fox oldies including "State Fair" and "The Rains Came" . . . Latest on Person to Person is that it may return to channel 11 around March 1. The beer company sponsor who won't show it in Washington because his beer isn't sold there will cancel about that time.

As for ratings "Annie Get Your Gun" trampled the opposition but "Pied Piper" was edged by Wyatt Earp . . . Fred Coe, producer of "Annie Get Your Gun", has left NBC and may move to CBS, taking Mary Martin with him . . . Stars of forthcoming shows are Marina Lox (Minerva) Ann Sothern (Career Girl) Will Rogers Jr. (Swiss Family Robinson) John Howard (Caribbean Adventure) . . . Other new shows are Heidi, Rome Eternal, Space Explorer, Detective Story (from the 1949 play) . . . Quote of the year, CBS special events chief Walter Cronkite says: "In regard to the Mike Todd affair, I wish only to say I am sorry."

"Will the killer be caught? Will Valda find her husband? Deposit another quarter to find out."

Big B.C. Crop

Officials Discuss Apples

KELOWNA (CP) — Two B.C. executives are in Ottawa this week to discuss the disposition of Canada's bumper apple crop.

R. P. Walker and J. B. Lander general manager and general sales manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. are Okanagan representatives on the apple committee of the Canadian Horticultural Council.

The Canadian apple supply situation will be discussed, along with the merchandising problems involved, in what has been described as one of the most difficult years from an apple-selling standpoint.

This has been attributed largely to chaotic conditions on competitive markets in the U.S., a spokesman said here.

In addition to the horticultural council meetings, the B.C. delegates will confer with government officials, emphasizing the pressing problems facing Okanagan growers.

Boys Fire Mousenik

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — Ten teen-age boys Tuesday sent a rocket containing a mouse 1,642 feet into the air. The mouse was killed when it crashed. The boys, who call themselves the Austin Rocket Society, made the rocket with the help of Sister M. Dunscotus, a high school chemistry and physics teacher.

Librarian Traces Garden Books

History of garden books was traced by Victoria Public Library chief librarian John Lort from the manuscript period of Biblical times to the present day at the monthly meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society Tuesday.

Monthly competition prizes were awarded to Mrs. Thomas Wrightland, Mrs. James Bridge, Mrs. F. W. Carey and Keith Dixon for floral arrangements for a Christmas dinner table and plates of locally grown nuts and Brussels sprouts.

Whitoak Memorial Trophy, for the member doing the most for the society in the past year, was awarded to W. J. Roper.

If Held Up Consult Card

A printed card, advising merchants, sales clerks, cashiers and others who may be robbed, what to do if held up by a gunman has been prepared by the RCMP.

Main objective of the card, which is distributed nationally and is on a handy card for keeping near a telephone, is to help provide police with accurate descriptions of criminals.

'The RCMP Has Failed'

Vancouver Labelled Nation's Dope Capital

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Telegram says Vancouver has become "Canada's dope capital," replacing Toronto and Montreal which held the title in former years.

The story, first of a series written from Vancouver by Gordon Donaldson, says Vancouver "has more addicts for its size than any other city in the western hemisphere."

OUT OF CONTROL

The report says two factors are at the core of Canada's drug addiction problem: "The narcotics menace is out of control" and "there is no agreed plan to beat it."

"The RCMP has failed to stop drug trafficking."

It says Canada now has about 5,000 addicts, 3,241 of them listed, and "their costs to the country is estimated at $30,000,000 a year."

Of Vancouver, the report says:

"The road to hell, gravelled with good intentions, starts here in Vancouver.

2,000 ADDICTS

"This beautiful city shelters 2,000 addicts, peddling heroin to each other at a rate of 4,000 capsules a night and stealing millions of dollars' worth of goods a year to pay for that habit."

The story says "addiction now is recognized as a disease—but the chief treatment offered is jail."

Lighting Contest Judged Dec. 21-22

Annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest will be judged between Dec. 21 and 23, committee director Robert Carrier said yesterday. Entry forms will be available this week in all downtown stores which sell Christmas decorations.

Classifications are: Completely decorated house; decorated window or door; Christmas garden lighting; novice contestant (first-year entry); best depiction of a Christmas message; non-contestants.

It's Been Five Days Since Sam Vanished

Five full days have gone by since Sam the seal vanished from his home above Cordova Bay, and up to last night the mottled-grey six-month-old had not been found.

A pet of David Hancock, 4888 Wesley, since infancy, Sam is not used to fending for himself, and his owner fears he may starve or fall victim to hunters or bigger game.

Sam wandered off sometime Friday night or early Saturday from his home. Saturday morning he was seen by a neighbor who didn't know him and who reported him to police. They caught him and turned him loose in Cordova Bay.

MRS. MINNIE E. JONES

Esquimalt Woman New 'Good Driver'

Latest of Greater Victoria's "good driver" award winners is from Esquimalt. She is Mrs. Minnie Evangaline Jones, of 1916 Bewdley, who has been a driver since 1923.

During the war years in Victoria Mrs. Jones was a Civil Defence ambulance driver in charge of three ambulances. More recently she drove for St. John Ambulance and the blind.

She is regarded as a most careful and courteous driver," said the Esquimalt police citation for Mrs. Jones.

Good drivers are selected by police of the four Greater Victoria municipalities in co-operation with Woodward Stores (Victoria) Ltd. and The Daily Colonist.

Each will receive a certificate signed by the chief of police, and two tickets to a home game of the Victoria Cougars hockey team.
